LADYSMITH—A dramatic plea for help, passed on to a gas station operator's wife has led to a man being charged with kidnapping an Alberta couple at gunpoint while they were camping near here this week.

William Charles Smith, 37, of no fixed address, was remanded to Riverview mental hospital after appearing before Magistrate Lance Heard.

The couple, Howard Frank, 26, and Audrey Swanson, 24, spent Thursday night at Miracle Beach and left for their Edmonton homes today.

Their ordeal started after they moved into Ivy Green campsite Tuesday evening.

NEARBY CAMPER
"A man camping nearby came up to us and threatened us with a revolver," they said.

"He seemed to be about 45, and was not very coherent. He had several days' growth of beard."

The man told them they would have to take him to Victoria where he had to catch a ferry to Vancouver.

NOT SCARED
Miss Swanson said she was nervous, but not really scared.

The man stayed with them all night at their campsite.

"He did not use any violence, except for threatening us with the revolver," they said.

He forced them to drive toward Duncan Wednesday morning. They reached a service station at Chemainus where Mrs. J. C. Rumley, wife of the operator, was attending the pump.

SEEMED UNHAPPY
"They came in a small red sedan," she said. "The young man asked me to fill up the tank. Somehow they seemed unhappy."

"There was a man sitting in the back seat, but I couldn't see his face. He sat behind the girl. The young man in the driver's seat handed me a folded $10 bill and inside I found a note written on toilet paper asking me to alert the police."

PHONED MOUNTIES
Mrs. Rumley said as soon as they left she phoned Duncan RCMP.

"At first I was a joke, but even if it was a joke you wouldn't take any chance."

Police officers stopped the car a short distance from the service station. Because they weren't sure who was the kidnapper, they grabbed Mr. Frank as well.

NO RESISTANCE
The accused man did not resist arrest, said the officers.

Later the couple went to thank Mrs. Rumley, and "I took a picture for my scrap book."

She said: "Audrey told me they wrote another note on toilet tissue and left it in the restaurant in Ivy Green Park. The fellow told the young people he had the gun and two knives."

Premier Appeals for Order

French Workers Seize Factories

PARIS (AP)—Workers, following the lead of France's rebellious students, took control of at least six French factories Thursday, welding themselves shut in one. Across the country, a wave of social disorder was shaking the calm, prosperous face that France shows to the world.

In a nationwide broadcast Premier Georges Pompidou appealed desperately for order, saying agitators are trying to destroy "the very basis of our civilization."

President de Gaulle is on a state visit in Romania.

Pompidou had told students earlier Thursday night that he recognized their legitimate demands for university reforms, but that the government would not "tolerate the disruption of republican order."

As he spoke about 1,000 undergraduates marched from the Paris Latin Quarter to one of the strike-bound plants in the capital's industrial belt and said they would sit-in with the workers.

In developments Thursday, the 2,500 workers at the nationalized Sud-Aviation factory at Nantes who occupied the plant Tuesday and locked up the director in their fight against a longer work week, welded factory gates shut to keep police out.

Nationalized Renault auto plants at Rouen, Le Havre, Le Mans and Flins just outside Paris began sit-down strikes. Entrances and exits were barred at Flins, where the red flag flew.

Strikers demands ranged from pay parity with Paris workers to restoration of the 40-hour week. The move seemed to be spreading to the main Boulogne-Billancourt plant in Paris and to one at Sandouville. More than 20,000 workers were involved including Bordeaux shipyard workers who went out to protest against reduction in shipbuilding.

The upheaval, threatening to spread to French farms as well, appears to have its roots in economic problems joined with uncertainty, even frustration about the future.

U.S. Tornado Toll 70 Lives Japan Reels in Third Quake

TOKYO (AP)—Japan's third earthquake in 24 hours shattered through northern Honshu, the country's main island, this morning. It was less strong than the two that wrecked thousands of buildings and killed at least 38 persons Thursday.

The Central Meteorological Agency said the new quake registered only three on the seven-point Japanese scale but could be disastrous to structures weakened by the first two quakes.

No reports of damage were available immediately.

OUT TO SEA
The agency located the latest quake's epicentre about 25 miles under the surface of the north Pacific, about 120 miles out to sea.

Few and tidal waves added to the destruction caused by the two strong shocks Thursday.

Police listed nine persons as missing and 226 as injured in today's quake.

MORE COMING
The first shock Thursday stopped clocks at 7:49 a.m. and the second came about 10 hours later. The Central Meteorological Agency said after shocks will continue for a month or more.

Radio Moscow reported in a Japanese-language broadcast that the Soviet-held southern Kurile Islands were similarly battered. It said nothing about casualties there.

UTILITIES OUT
Japanese police reported more than 2,000 houses were destroyed or damaged on Honshu, Japan's main island, and hundreds were flooded. Travel and communications were disrupted and many communities were without utilities.

The epicentre of Thursday's quake was pinpointed at 25 miles below the floor of the Pacific 30 miles off Cape Erimo of Hokkaido, the northernmost of Japan's main islands.

BIG ONE
The meteorological agency said the magnitude of the epicentre was 7.8 on a Japanese scale with a normal maximum of 7. The 7.8 reading was the strongest recorded here since Sept. 1, 1923, when Tokyo and Yokohama were laid waste by a quake of 7.9 magnitude. That quake killed 143,000 persons and destroyed 3,000,000 homes.

'Jumbo-ized' Ships

Bennett Fleet May Stretch Ferry Dollars

By IAN STREET, Legislative Reporter

VANCOUVER — Within a few months the provincial government must make the between creating a fleet of "stretch ferries" and building new ships, Premier Bennett indicated here Thursday.

The premier gave the hint in an interview aboard the latest acquisition and largest ship in the government fleet, Queen of the Sunshine Coast, during the vessel's inaugural run from Horseshoe Bay to Langdale, across island-studded Howe Sound.

A steady rise in ferry traffic, around 10 per cent annually, is forcing authorities to look into every possible means of making the service—in the premier's words—"more flexible with the existing ships."

Mr. Bennett outlined a series of proposed shifts in vessels which could see one of the full-size Queens put into the mainland-to-Gulf Islands service and the Queen of the Islands replacing the smaller Comox Queen on the run across Georgia Strait to Powell River.

Ferry officials stressed, however, that the changes couldn't be brought about until the early summer of 1969 because there would have to be terminal modifications to accommodate the larger vessels.

The proposed shifts would provide a ship with the regular 145-car capacity on the service out of Tsawwassen to Long Harbour on Salt Spring Island. The Queen of the Islands, with room for 80 cars, which now covers this service, would bring increased capacity to the busy three-times daily Comox-to-Powell River link.

This would free the Comox Queen, with a 35-car capacity, for use as an extra vessel on the Howe Sound run. The Sun-

Black Ghost Car Haunts Mounties

NANAIMO (CP) — Wesley Black, British Columbia's new highways minister, says he turned the tables Wednesday and stopped a police car.

"I blew my horn until he stopped," said the gaudy minister. "The RCMP officer asked me what I wanted, and I told him I wanted to be the first highways minister in B.C. to stop the RCMP, for a change."

His predecessor, F. A. Gagnier, was stopped a number of times by police and given tickets for speeding.

Mr. Black, in a tongue-in-cheek interview here, said he plans to stop more RCMP cars on the highways.

The most massive and destructive onslaught of tornadoes this spring left at least 70 persons dead in parts of the United States Thursday.

More than 1,000 persons were injured, three were killed and millions of dollars of damage to homes and buildings ran into millions of dollars.

NEW STATES
The winds cut through parts of nine states in the mid-U.S. late Wednesday and early Thursday and literally shredded several communities.

Wadena, a central Illinois community of 500, was 90 per cent damaged. Every building in the community except the high school was destroyed or damaged. Four persons were killed and more than 50 injured in the community.

2,000 HOMES
An estimated 2,000 homes and 15 businesses were destroyed in Oshtemo County, Iowa, a city with a population of more than 18,000. Another 1,500 homes suffered major damage. Twelve Charles City residents were killed and 367 injured.

C4 Trough, a town of 230, was virtually demolished.

Buffer Zone Agreement Could End Viet Bombing

PARIS (UPI) — U.S. chief negotiator Averell Harriman indicated Thursday night that acceptance by Hanoi of his proposal for restoration of the demilitarized buffer zone might be sufficient to persuade President Johnson to order a total halt to bombing of North Vietnam.

Harriman, in a television interview, said restoration of the zone separating North and South Vietnam "might be a breaking point" in the Paris talks impasse, especially if it resulted in cutting down infiltration of men and supplies to the south.

The U.S. ambassador-at-large said, however, that North Vietnamese infiltration "has been going along at a very high rate."

(See also Page 5)

"They haven't shown any indication of exercising restraint," he said.

The U.S. called on North Vietnam earlier Thursday to halt public propaganda duels and open genuine Vietnam peace talks in private.

But the communists gave no sign they were ready to do so. Hanoi served new notice it would not even discuss peace with the U.S. while Harriman and North Vietnamese chief envoy Xuan Thuy prepared their strategy for the next formal meeting of the Paris talks — scheduled for Saturday morning.

In the last session of the talks Wednesday, Harriman had proposed that both sides withdraw their troops from the demilitarized zone as a first step toward cutting down the scale of the fighting.

In the same interview, Harriman

British Deny Involvement

Biafra Claims 260 RN Dead

GENEVA (AP) — Biafran authorities, ignoring a British statement that no Royal Navy men were serving in the Nigerian Navy, claimed Thursday that about 260 British servicemen were killed during an abortive attempt last week to invade Port Harcourt in the Nigerian civil war.

The statement was carried by the Biafran overseas press division, official outlet of the secessionist Nigerian state's information ministry. It said the dead were 10 officers and about 250 non-commissioned officers and other ranks.

These NCOs were part of a strike force of 600 British soldiers specially on loan to Nigeria for the invasion of Port Harcourt, the press statement quoted a Biafran defence ministry spokesman as saying.

The casualties occurred during a naval encounter in the Bonny Channel, the statement said.

In London, a British spokesman said:

"We have no British servicemen serving with the Nigerians or the Biafrans. There are no army, navy or air force servicemen taking part."

Communists Continuing Fight, Talk Strategy

SAIGON (AP) — The Communists stepped up attacks across South Vietnam Thursday in what appears to be "fight and talk" strategy, continuing savage battles last week that killed a record 562 Americans.

There was renewed fighting in the far north, where American casualties were heaviest last week, and in the central highlands and around Saigon.

Australian troops manning a patrol base 26 miles northeast of Saigon twice hurled back hundreds of charging North Vietnamese, who moved up under cover of a rocket and mortar barrage.

The Americans killed last week exceeded by 19 the previous high in the week of Feb. 11-17 during the Communist lunar New Year offensive. Besides the hard fighting in the north, last week saw the second Communist offensive of the year crushed around Saigon.

The U.S. command said 5,552 Communist soldiers were killed last week, well below the peak in their February offensive. South Vietnamese headquarters reported 675 troops killed, the government's third highest weekly toll in the war.

Some of the hardest fighting Thursday broke out in the central highlands where North Vietnamese troops struck at an outpost of the U.S. 4th Infantry Division 20 miles from the Cambodian border.

Paris Impasse

IN THE INTERVAL between conversations at the Paris meeting of United States and North Vietnamese envoys, Mr. W. Averell Harriman and his advisers will be trying to find some new argument for the consideration of effective re-establishment of a demilitarized buffer zone as a means to de-escalation of the war.

It seems a logical and reasonable step. Without such a neutral corridor no disengagement of forces could be satisfactorily achieved. A lasting truce would be next to impossible.

So far, Mr. Xuan Thuy, Hanoi's chief delegate at the talks, has refused to discuss the suggestion. He insists that before the examination of any truce terms the United States must respond to his demand for a full stop to bombing raids and all military operations against North Vietnam.

That would include any molestation of strong Northern forces currently in garrison in the erstwhile demilitarized zone itself.

This zone was established by the Geneva accord of 1954.

The North Vietnamese, in a flagrant breach of that agreement, have consistently used the area as an operating base and consider it a sort of sanctuary. Just as they have flouted international law by establishing the Ho Chi Minh trail in Laos and used Cambodia as an escapeway when the situation in South Vietnam made it an alternative to battle or surrender, so they have had no compunction about utilizing the neutral lands.

Before he will talk about a demilitarized area, said Mr. Xuan Thuy, the United States must stop "the bombardment of artillery bases" there.

"Surely the simplest solution would be the removal of these bases to North Vietnam territory where President Johnson's bombing restrictions are in effect.

If there is to be any progress in the Paris discussions both sides must be prepared to give a little and on this issue Hanoi could well afford to show some flexibility. It would risk no loss of face.

Quite the contrary. It would establish its conscientiousness as a negotiator.

To press his terms for a further unilateral military retreat by the United States and her allies, Mr. Xuan Thuy is demanding, in effect, an admission of aggression on the part of his enemies.

Unless Mr. Harriman can find some way of persuading the other side to meet him on the demilitarized zone issue, the prospect for success in Paris is dim indeed.

Rough Road for Labor

MORE THAN THE LIFE of the Labor government in Britain is at stake as Parliament faces a stern test of strength on the issue of prices and wage control.

That, at least, is the dramatic warning from Mr. Wedgwood Benn, the minister of technocracy.

In the face of a revolt of Labor's left wing, to whose members the prices and income controls are unacceptable, Mr. Benn warns that the defeat of the government on the issue would mean "the final end of the (socialist) movement itself."

"If the very powerful forces that want to destroy us are able to do so, our place will be taken by these very forces, who would then know that they were invincible."

Mr. Benn may be exaggerating the danger to the Labor party's future prospects when he questions its ability to survive a defeat in the Commons. But there is no doubt that if dissolution was forced upon the government it would have little hope of winning an election at this time.

The results of the local elections in Britain provide the evidence for this contention. The London Times observes, "The rout is devastating and humiliating." And the Financial Times remarks the defeat of so many Labor supporters in so many previous strongholds of the party was "little short of a catastrophe for the government."

The local reverses, however, do not directly threaten the administration. The prices and income control issue does, and in spite of the fact the government has a solid majority in the House. The Opposition is committed to defeat of the measure and the danger to the government is that, although no left-winger would think of joining the Conservative lobby, there may be many abstentions.

Prime Minister Harold Wilson must discourage that trend, already indicated by more than 30 backbenchers who will walk out, so they say, on second reading of the bill next week.

If Mr. Wilson succeeds he will have a chance to restore at least some of the confidence obviously lost. It appears that devaluation of the pound and the economy measures are at last beginning to have the desired effect. The Manchester Guardian points out there are encouraging signs in more buoyant overseas trade. Industrial efficiency is improving. The defence and foreign policies have been overhauled.

"Unless (government) members panic and let their party disintegrate, they can carry on," the paper says.

Mr. Benn has heeded the warning. But he might also have told Labor members they have a duty to try to stay the course.

The CYC Cutback

THE COMPANY OF YOUNG CANADIANS undoubtedly is doing the right thing in concentrating its resources in "quality programs." This is one reason given for withdrawal from projects in Winnipeg and Toronto.

The CYC, former prime minister Lester Pearson's version of the U.S. Peace Corps, is operating this year on a budget cut from $2,400,000 to $1,900,000 as part of federal spending reductions. Morale in the company is said to be low, not only because the cutback forced it to postpone extension of its operations overseas but because plans for further and better programs in Canada have had to be abandoned.

Now is the time, however, for it to mount a do-or-die effort, in the spirit of its adventuresome name. For most Canadians the work of the young volunteers had been almost completely unimpressive, even where it has not been invisible.

If the governing council of the company can and will reshape its activities and concentrate on areas where it can demonstrate its worth as an uplifting agency among the poor and underprivileged, it will deserve the continuing support of the taxpayers. If not, it should not be allowed to linger long on the downhill path.

Washington Calling

Toward a Plateau of Co-Existence

By MARQUIS CHILDS

VASILY KUZNETSOV, first deputy foreign minister of the Soviet Union, dropped a chance remark the other day that may have been more than polite chatter. In conversation with one of the delegates of the 17-member United Nations Disarmament Commission in New York he observed that it was important to get all possible business with the United States wrapped up in the next few months because no one could tell what would happen after November.

There are those who see in this an explanation for a series of moves resolving long-standing differences between Washington and Moscow. In this interpretation the peace talks in Paris could not have come about without at least tacit Soviet management. Certainly, active Soviet opposition, snatching that of Red China, would have made it all but impossible for Hanoi to sit down with the United States.

With the turmoil inside the Communist bloc, accentuated by the revolutionary changes in Czechoslovakia, Moscow has another motive for clearing up unfinished business with the West. That is to bat down the hatches in the event that a serious storm should start to blow.

The Kremlin has just gone through with the formality of ratification by the Soviet parliament of the consular treaty. This provides the terms for opening additional consulates outside Moscow and Washington in each country. The most important provision from the American viewpoint covers the notification of American authorities when American citizens are held by the Soviet police. The Senate ratified the treaty last year by a vote of 68 to 23, which was three more than the required two-thirds majority.

Early last month Moscow agreed after a long delay to resume negotiations for renewal of cultural exchanges. And the last technical details have been cleared away for the start of direct commercial flights, probably by mid-June, between Moscow and New York.

The framework for this is the co-operation of the two nuclear superpowers at the United Nations in pushing for ratification of the non-proliferation treaty. Each is working on respective allies and friends to overcome an undercurrent of opposition centred in resentment that the nuclear giants propose to restrict others while taking no steps themselves to scale back their vast nuclear arsenals.

President Johnson continues to push for a broader understanding with the Soviet Union, looking with some hope apparently to a settlement that would mean a plateau of co-existence between the two powers. It would be a monument to the president's goal to try to bring peace to a deeply divided world.

The latest report giving substance to this effort is a letter Mr. Johnson is said to have sent to Premier Alexei N. Kosygin calling for a new exchange on the principal outstanding issues with a possible summit meeting like that at Glasboro, N.J., last year not ruled out.

The letter is believed to have been transmitted by Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson who was in Washington in April for consultation on the peace talks with Hanoi. He returned to Moscow on April 17 and, if the reports are correct, carried with him the president's new proposal. Thompson, the most skilled, talented and patient of negotiators, was initially to have been on the American team at the Paris talks. It was later decided that he would best serve the cause by remaining at his post in Moscow to participate when the Soviet Union became involved in a possible Vietnam settlement.

Thompson has all along been more hopeful about the prospect of a broader settlement. That was why he consented to return as ambassador to Moscow for a second tour of duty that he knew would be wearing and difficult even if an easing of tensions came at the end of the road.

His attitude is in marked contrast to that of other professionals in Washington close to the abrasive points between the two big powers. These professionals, conditioned by long bickering with Moscow, see no pattern other than mere coincidence in the recent resolution of comparatively minor matters.

If the Soviets really want to come to an understanding, say these skeptics, why then don't they respond to Thompson's repeated approaches on the antiballistic missile? In his State of the Union Message in January, 1967, the president called for an agreement in principle to forgo building a missile defence system costing not less than $40,000,000,000.

Former Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara said that such a system is useless, since it cannot prevent a first or second strike bringing millions of casualties. Thompson's principal mission in returning as ambassador was to get action on an ABM agreement. Thus far he has encountered only delay and more delay.

Ten-Year-Old Industry

Air-Cushion Developments

By JOHN PETTY

A NEW way of treating severely burned patients... A train to travel at 300 mph... A company wanting to move two 70-ton storage tanks... An amphibious car-terry able to cross seas, rivers, deserts, marshes and ice. At first sight, they are subjects with little in common.

But involved in each is a common factor arising from the work of Christopher Cockrell, a British inventor whose ideas are coming to fruition in a way which will bring startling changes to life in the latter half of the 20th century.

It is 15 years since Cockrell, then an electronics engineer with a small commercial boat building interest, started it all. He wanted to find a way of reducing water resistance so that boats could travel faster.

Two years later he filed his first patent, based on an experiment using two coffee tins, a pair of kitchen scales and a jet of air.

By 1958 he had made enough progress to get the support of the National Research Development Corporation, an independent body sponsored by the British government with the mission of helping inventions. That was the moment when the hovercraft industry was born—just ten years ago.

It has come far in those ten years. Now it is moving out of the purely experimental field and into the everyday world where it will be encountered with increasing frequency in the next decade.

Cockrell's early thoughts on lifting loads on a cushion of air to reduce water-drag have naturally given the greatest impetus to development in the marine business. Already more than a million people have used the various types of hovercraft which provide regular services between the English mainland and the Isle of Wight.

Similar craft are carrying passengers in Italy, the United States, Japan and other parts of the world. Many more are on order from British companies. These exciting craft have led the hovercraft development. But now an immense variety of uses is becoming evident.

One of the most interesting is the development of the hover-bed for the treatment of badly-burned people. It consists of a fabric bag hung on a rigid framework. The top of the bag has two rows of pockets which meet in the centre. Warm, sterile air is pumped into the bag at low pressure so that the pockets inflate.

When the patient is placed on the bed, the pockets form a seal along the side of his body but fall away beneath him. This leaves the patient floating on a cushion of air. The weeping areas of the burns dry very rapidly and the patient has far less pain than under treatment in a normal hospital bed.

In industry, its first application is in the process of lifting heavy loads. A hover-pallet, for example, is going into use in many factories.

It consists of a simple platform which glides along on a cushion of contained air. A man can push a load of a ton or more around a factory floor using no more pressure than that of a single finger if a hover-pallet is available.

The same principle is being applied on a much bigger scale. The hover-truck made its first big impact last year when it lifted 200-ton transformers across bridges when the equipment was being delivered by road.

Previously, it would have been necessary to strengthen bridges along the route in order to take such a heavy load.

In the hover-truck, air is fed to the cushion from Rolls-Royce engines housed in a sound-proof compartment.

The National Research Development Corporation records the movement of two oil-storage tanks at an Esso depot near Manchester, northwest England, as the most spectacular air cushion transport operation so far. They were 50 ft in diameter and had to be moved on a 200-yard zig-zag path to a new site.

Hovercraft Development, a subsidiary of the corporation, designed special skirts to strap round the bottom of the tanks. These were inflated, lifting the 70-ton tanks seven inches from the ground.

Air was pumped at only 60 pounds per square foot, but this was enough to "float" the tanks to their new place.

The newest air-cushion subsidiary of the corporation is Tracked Hovercraft. It is "a promote the world use of high speed guided land hovercraft transport systems."

Headquarters have been set up at Cambridge and an experimental track is being set up across the flat fenland of East Angles. A 300 mph passenger train should be in use by 1970.

Meanwhile, Britain is rapidly becoming used to the hovercraft as a means of sea and sheltered water transport. New services and new types of craft are being introduced, cutting journey times by two-thirds compared with conventional ferries.

Military men of all nations are taking an interest, wanting them for fast patrol craft, for logistics and offensive work. But they are also finding a place in sport, ambulance work, air-sea rescue, fire-fighting, coast guard work and many other jobs.

Their versatility means they can operate in places where other forms of transport are out of the question.

Moscow Anxious About Indonesia

By DEV MURARKA from Moscow

WHATEVER the immediate outcome of the Vietnam peace talks in Paris, they are a sign that momentous changes are taking shape in the power pattern of Southeast Asia, an area consisting of a patchwork of small states overwhelmed by the presence of bigger powers in their midst.

Indonesia occupies a key position in the geopolitical context of the region by virtue of its size, population and resources. Naturally, therefore, it has been the object of intense big power rivalry.

Indonesia is also the most unstable politically. It is therefore not without reason that developments in Jakarta are watched closely by Moscow, and that acute anxiety is felt here about its future. The Russians are in a particularly difficult position over Indonesia, for several reasons. First, for a period under former President Sukarno they had very cordial relations with Jakarta and provided a substantial amount of help in money, machines and weapons. Later, when Sukarno went over to the Chinese camp, the Russians had to continue their aid to keep a foothold against mounting Chinese pressure on Indonesia to oust them.

The situation radically changed over the failure of the Communist coup on September 30, 1965, and the counter-revolution that followed. The army took over, Sukarno was gradually pushed out, and there was a wholesale massacre of Communist leaders, rank-and-file members and many innocent people as well. It soon became clear that, irrespective of the fact whether the Communist Party of Indonesia (PKI) as a whole was involved in the coup attempt or not, the army was determined to gain power and keep it.

These events posed a distressing dilemma for the Soviet Union. On the one hand, it could demand that the overthrow of Sukarno be followed by the overthrow of the Communist movement in Indonesia, the most powerful outside the Communist countries, and the swing to the Right which followed. On the other hand, Soviet policymakers were also concerned with keeping Indonesia neutral and not provoking the new administration of General Suharto in any way to provide an excuse for a shift in policy towards the West.

In the event, the Russians have not been able to prevent such a shift. That the Chinese have also lost their influence in Jakarta is no consolation for Moscow, since the Russians have held Peking guilty of pushing the leadership of the PKI down the dangerous and disastrous path which led to disaster. Even so, the Russians are still doing their best not to provoke Jakarta and to maintain some influence there.

In recent months, however, Soviet disappointment with trends in Indonesia has been expressed publicly.

The Soviet press is publishing critical evaluation not only of the current trends there, but also of the wasted years under Sukarno.

What emerges from this is an ambivalence of approach towards developments in Indonesia under Sukarno and pessimism about the future. The two are interrelated, because the Soviet analysts now contend that even under Sukarno the army was too powerful and too corrupt, and it was the failure to Sukarno to curb the army which proved his undoing. Indeed, the Soviet criticism of what is termed "bureaucratic bourgeoisie" in Indonesia is frank and harsh.

In an important assessment of Indonesia, recently published in the weekly Literary Gazette, it is stated that the "Kabiris"—an abbreviation of two Indonesian words (capitalist) and (bribe) (bureaucrat)—ruled the Indonesian economy freely after the nationalization of Dutch enterprises. "On gaining power, the kabiris lost no time in looting whatever little had remained of colonial property and meticulously turned the loot into gold, dollars, pounds and guilders instead of building factories and mines, and regularly transferring money to foreign banks for a rainy day." A large part of the foreign loans received by the state had also found its way into the pockets of the kabiris.

This abuse of State funds, combined with other factors, contributed to the decline of the Indonesian economy. Moreover, having grown rich, the kabiris found the remaining state restrictions irksome, and thus the tendency was born to do away with Sukarno and establish a right-wing military regime, say the Russians. This was the beginning of plots and counter-plots, which resulted in the events of September 30 and what followed.

What of the present and the future? The Russians concur in the judgment of others who say that Indonesia is up for sale. They note with despair that U.S., British, Dutch and West German capital is flowing into the country and correspondingly increasing Western influence.

An even more ominous sign in Russian eyes is the fact that Indonesia has joined the Association of Southeast Asia Nations (ASEAN), which is nominally an organization for economic and cultural co-operation, but which the Russians view as another U.S. Trojan horse. The Russians are convinced that ASEAN will eventually turn into a military-political organization. Their suspicion is increased by the fact that the right-wing Indonesian press is campaigning for ASEAN to be converted into such an organization. They also view with despondency such Indonesian moves as establishing contact with South Korea and Formosa, and the commendation by some Indonesians of the governments in Seoul and Taipei as models for Jakarta.

The Russians are coming to the conclusion that it is perhaps only a matter of time before a fully-fledged military dictatorship is established in Jakarta and even right-wing parties, at the moment allowed to exist, are banned completely. If this analysis is correct, it suggests that the Russians are reconciling themselves to the loss of Indonesia to the Western camp.

For the Russians the loss of Indonesia as a friendly country is a serious one. Because of geographic and political factors, Southeast Asia is a difficult region in which to gain and keep influence that is politically effective. Yet for them it is also vital to have some influence if the region is not to be carved up between China and America. Hence the persistent Soviet tendency to see some silver lining in the dark clouds over Jakarta, and to go on hoping that Jakarta may yet emerge again to embrace neutralism.

Paper's Disguises

PAPER wears more disguises today than a chameleon. Besides its obvious uses in newspaper, books, and business correspondence—to say nothing of growing consumption by automatic copying machines—paper has found a place in industries once considered far beyond its scope.

In waterproof, fire-resistant, fortified, padded, and ultra-thin forms, paper products are made into walls, floors, furniture, and toys; into heavy-duty packing materials, tiny cosmetic boxes, fine insulation for electrical condensers, and light but sturdy aircraft parts.

Manufacturers turn out disposable paper sheets and operating gowns for hospitals, uniforms for factory workers, dresses, ski pants, and bathing suits. Modern technology has even created a flexible paper knitting yarn. It makes a fabric strong enough for repeated wear.

Such novel and complex applications of paper have come about only within the last few decades, says the National Geographic Society. It was not until the mid-19th century that simple, machine-made bags became available.

Yet the invention of paper as a means of preserving records and exchanging ideas was one of civilization's earliest victories, ranking with weaving and pottery-making as a gauge of progress.

Historians credit a Chinese court official named Tsai Lun with devising the first paper, and we know it, in 105 AD. This writing surface (as distinct from an ancient forerunner, Egyptian papyrus, and later animal-skin parchment) was obtained by drying soaked and macerated hemp, flax, or other plant fibres on flat, porous molds.

Papermaking spread from China to Korea and Japan, then gradually westward by way of the Middle East and North Africa.

For centuries rags provided the chief raw material for most of the world's paper industry. With perennial rag shortages and the development of mechanical and chemical techniques in the 1800s, paper manufacturers turned to wood pulp. Modern mass production began.

Currently, the Library of Congress in Washington is presenting a year-long exhibition on "Papermaking: Art and Craft."

To point up the inherent relationship of paper and printing, the displays include old and rare books, manuscripts, lithographs, maps, and engravings illustrating pioneer paper mills and hand methods.

The exhibit's earliest example of paper printing is a collection of three tiny Japanese dharani—prayer-charm scrolls—that were made from copper blocks about 770 AD, by order of the Empress Shotoku.

Another exotic feature of the exhibit is an Aztec pictograph which is an Aztec pictograph that depicts Aztec slaves, bows and arrows, clothing, and feathers representing the value of tid to officials.

Millions Will Soon Starve to Death And Nothing Can Be Done to Stop It

Millions of people are going to starve to death —and soon, according to Dr. Paul R. Ehrlich, Stanford University biologist. He says nothing can be done to prevent it. It is too late.

Dr. Ehrlich, in an article on world population in the current issue of Stanford Today, says that millions will die because of short-sighted governments, because some religious organizations have blocked attempts to control the birth rate, and because scientists have managed to persuade influential people that a technological rabbit can always be pulled out of the hat to save mankind at the last minute.

There won't be a last-

• Tax, as luxuries, diapers, baby bottles and baby foods.

• Make birth control training in schools mandatory.

increase in the population of the earth.

"Intriguing as the prospect may be to certain irresponsible politicians, economists and religious leaders, we will not achieve an infinite population size," according to Ehrlich.

"Sooner or later the growth of the human population must stop," he says. The halt will come about either through birth control or an increase in the death rate.

Dr. Ehrlich thinks that a giant increase in the number of deaths is about to begin.

"Even if there were a miraculous change in human attitudes and behavior it is already too late to prevent a drastic rise in the death rate through starvation," he writes.

He says it has been predicted that the "time of famines" will be upon the world by the middle of the 1970s. The U.S. Department of Agriculture has figured America can feed the developing countries until 1984, but Ehrlich thinks the 1970s are more likely to see the ultimate failure of that attempt to stave off famine.

What we must consider now, he says, is what we can do today to improve the possibility of man's making good with a second chance, provided he is lucky enough to get one.

Ehrlich thinks the most important thing to be done now that it is too late to prevent world famine and a reduction of population by a rise in the death rate—is to alert people to the dangers of constantly trying to increase food production.

Subtle biological properties of the environment, if ignored, may lead to very unworkable calamities, he says. A basic fact of population biology is that the simpler an ecological system (that is, the system of relationship between living things and their environment) the less stable it is. He compared a complex forest, which is hard to disturb, with a field of wheat which disappears almost at once if left untended by man.

"Plans for increasing production of food always involve large-scale efforts at environmental modification," Ehrlich writes.

"The more we have manipulated the environment, the more we have been required to manipulate it. The more we have used synthetic pesticides, the less we have been able to do without them. The more we have deforested land the more flood control dams we have had to build.

"The more farmland we have subdivided, the pressure we have created to increase the yield of land remaining under cultivation and to farm marginal land," Ehrlich says.

According to the Stanford biologist, the earth has come largely under the control of a culture that sees man's proper role as dominating nature rather than living in harmony with it.

If the bad effects of what man does happened suddenly they would be more quickly noticed and resented, and the chance that something he done would be improved.

Ehrlich thinks a population of about 150,000,000 people would be about right for the United States. It would be enough to maintain the technological society, and people could concentrate on improving the quality of human life.

"After all," he asks, "What do we gain from packing more and more people into the United States? Those encouraging population growth in the hope of keeping the economy expanding must realize the consequences."

The consequences, as envisaged by Dr. Ehrlich, include a heritage of social disorder and unemployment on an unprecedented scale, perhaps the wearing of smog masks as a matter of course, the eating of mock steaks made of processed grass or seaweed, camping out for recreation under plastic trees planted in concrete, and government regimentation and control to a previously unheard of degree.

To avoid such a future, which is only possible if thermonuclear war or universal famine don't wipe most of us out, Dr. Ehrlich says the government should spend a lot of money propagandizing birth control, and making clear the connection between a rising population and a lowering quality of life.

Tax laws should be changed to discourage reproduction instead of encourage it.

He thinks luxury taxes should be placed on diapers, baby bottles and baby foods. Federal law should make birth control training mandatory in the schools, and the federal government should forbid the States to limit abortions approved by physicians.

There are two other common misapprehensions about the coming famines and birth control, according to Ehrlich.

One is that intelligent people should have a lot of children to keep the race from being "selected" for stupidity. Ehrlich says this is nonsense, and that there is no proof the stupid are out-reproducing the intelligent. In any case, any lowering of average intelligence would be slight and could be reversed, which is more than can be said for death by starvation or thermonuclear war.

The other misapprehension is the idea popular in the United States that Americans won't suffer in the time of famines.

Because of the turmoil of wars and riots and insurrections that will accompany the famines, telling the underdeveloped countries that the population explosion is their problem, not ours, is like telling a fellow passenger on a sinking ocean liner that it is his end of the ship that is going down, according to Ehrlich.

'Halt Hostilities Unconditionally'

Our Terms or Else Hanoi's Ultimatum

By K. O. THALER, from Paris

North Vietnam has given the United States a virtual ultimatum—accept our terms, or there can be no negotiation for a Vietnam settlement.

This was the clear message conveyed Thursday by the Vietnamese here for the Paris peace probe.

If Hanoi's chief negotiator Xuan Thuy, left any doubt in his tough policy statement at the conference table Wednesday, his spokesman Thursday made the position crystal clear:

The United States must stop the bombing of all of North Vietnam and must also halt all hostilities of any kind against it, here and now. It must do it unconditionally, moreover.

Hanoi will not offer anything in return, its spokesman says.

Then, and only then, will Hanoi be ready to begin negotiations for an overall Vietnam settlement.

Hanoi's latest message also confirms that its terms have been stepped up since it moved to the Paris conference table.

The North Vietnamese have been talking of the need for an American end to hostilities, other than the bombing halt.

Now they have affirmed that these, too, are a precondition for a start of formal negotiations.

The Communists are not mincing words.

Hanoi demands that the Americans abandon not only the bombing, but also all reconnaissance flights over North Vietnam, which are vital to keep an eye on its military movements southward, and a host of other hostile acts.

There is no other means presently available, apart from air reconnaissance, to control Hanoi's infiltration into South Vietnam. The International Control Commission (ICC) of India, Poland and Canada is practically defunct, and Hanoi has so far refused its resuscitation.

Evidently, Hanoi's tough stand reflects largely its starting position, in its first face-to-face confrontation with the American negotiators.

Will North Vietnam yield? So far it has given no signs whatever that it might.

Some observers with intimate knowledge of its toughness believe Hanoi will not budge from its position, now or later.

The United States will try to convince Hanoi that it must offer something in return for its extravagant demands, if business is to be done here.

A "gesture" of genuine goodwill could offer the basis for a move forward, in the direction of eventual agreement on ending the Vietnam war.

This gesture has not been offered so far, and Hanoi insists it is not prepared to make it. Whether it might be a question of how anxious Hanoi is to get the bombing ended.

Economics Come Before Ideology

Peking, Bonn Move Closer Despite Public Statements

Public statements sometimes confuse the world about the real state of relations between West Germany and Communist China.

In fact, the two are moving closer together at a rapid pace.

Communist propaganda strides from both Peking and Moscow obscure the real story.

Peking accuses Moscow of co-operating with the West Germans to "betray the German people in East Germany."

Moscow accuses Communist China of "buying" West German scientific know-how, especially rocket technology.

The fact is that Peking is putting economic considerations ahead of ideological priorities and pushing ahead with widened trade relations with West Germany.

The day may not be far off when Bonn and Peking exchange ambassadors.

Recently the Bayern-Kurier, a newspaper published in Munich and owned by Finance Minister Franz Josef Strauss, urged West Germany to recognize Communist China.

In an editorial written by Marcel Hepp, a close aide to Strauss, the paper said, "Red China is a reality the Federal Republic cannot refuse much longer to recognize."

Hepp said West German policy failed to consider that the most powerful opponent of West Germany — the Soviet Union — one day may be at war with its Chinese neighbor.

By EDWARD NEILAN From Hong Kong

He said, "All too often a kind of Atlantic sentimentalism, a blind German-American spirit of comradeship has overwhelmed sober political thinking."

The political implications of improved Bonn-Peking relations have not escaped the Russians.

Moscow Radio, broadcasting in Chinese, attacked China for exporting strategic materials such as ferrous and rare metals which West Germany has used for the manufacture of weapons.

Developing the theme of Sino-West German military "collusion," the Soviet broadcast said:

"A group of West German experts went to China at the end of 1966 to help design and build guided missiles with a range of 400 miles. A West German rocket expert signed a contract with China to build a rocket base."

"In short, the Mao Tse-tung clique is actively co-operating with the Bonn irreconcilables to produce missiles which can be aimed at the major cities of the Soviet Union and other European Socialist countries."

Moscow has also been fuming over the fact that China's rapidly expanding trade with West Germany has been accompanied by a decrease in trade with Communist countries — mainly the Soviet Union and East Germany.

West Germany further enhanced its position in 1967 as China's leading European trading partner. Two-way trade last year was more than $270,000,000 as compared to $194,000,000 for 1966.

West Germany has thus substantially increased its lead over Britain and France in the China trade, even though trade is on a non-official basis.

Chinese imports from West Germany are believed to consist mainly of chemicals and machinery. Talks began last year for the construction of a steel rolling mill in China, a contract worth about $156,000,000.

The West German news agency reported last February that several Chinese technicians had arrived in Dusseldorf to take delivery of components from the Mannesmann Steel Works for a Chinese tube mill.

There have been unconfirmed reports that China has tried to recruit West German aircraft and rocket technicians to build missiles in China.

The enlarging of trade between China and West Germany has not prevented Peking from posing as the champion of the East Germans and denouncing the Soviet Union as a "dirty gang of betrayers of the German people."

But trading with regimes it denounces politically is nothing new to the Chinese. They are still trading briskly with Rhodesia and South Africa, even though officially condemning those governments.

BACKGROUND

Four Months Before His Report DueBetter School Libraries VitalBy BILL STAVDAL

Four months before his report is due, the chairman of a major study of B.C.'s education system is already certain of one thing: better school libraries are vital.

Donald MacKenzie, head of the B.C. Teachers' Federation Commission on Education, made the statement and repeated it Wednesday as he and fellow commissioners Mrs. Lorill Harnay received briefs in Victoria.

SCHOOL CENTRES

Four of the briefs called for modern library resource centres in the schools.

The province-wide study, a sort of mini-royal commission on education, was announced last summer by the B.C.T.F.

Since then the commissioners have covered most of the province singly and together, receiving 147 briefs plus verbal submissions as of Wednesday.

TEN A WEEK

Briefs are still coming at the rate of 10 a week, said Mr. MacKenzie as the commission met in the Greater Victoria Teachers' Association office at 2622 Quadra.

Mr. MacKenzie is former assistant superintendent of schools in Vancouver. Mrs. Harnay is intermediate supervisor for the Burnaby school board. Absent Wednesday was the third commissioner, James Carter, also of Vancouver.

Mr. MacKenzie told one delegation:

"We are trying to find out what changes should be instituted in the school system, and how best to institute them."

The Institute of Victoria Librarians called for a provincial co-ordinator of school libraries. Commission secretary William Allister observed the department had had trouble getting top level staff.

"We have noticed that in the department of education, many of the salaries are lower than those paid in the school districts," he said.

Mr. MacKenzie commented:

PROBLEM SEEN

"The commission is very much aware that better libraries are essential.

"There are not too many schools in the province, that we have seen to date, that are well enough stocked and staffed to meet requirements."

A major problem, he said, was lack of qualified librarians.

TEACHERS TRAINING

The library sub-association of the Greater Victoria Teachers' Association advocated that university teacher training include an appreciation of library resources.

The G.V.T.A. intermediate teachers' sub-association said in its first recommendation:

"It is imperative that all elementary schools be so constructed that provision is made for a library resource centre."

'FAB SHORT'

The intermediate teachers also said:

"It is the opinion of this committee that the conditions generally in intermediate schools fall far short of those which are required for the successful implementation of many of the methods and programs now being introduced in the elementary grades, specifically at the intermediate level.

"It is of deep concern to this committee, and to the intermediate teachers in this district, that many of the current innovations are doomed to failure or at the most, to token success, because of two basic conditions which exist at the intermediate level—lack of essential resources and intolerable teacher workload."

The B.C. Music Educators' Association said every elementary school should have at least one specialist in music to work or assist from kindergarten up. Speaking of libraries, Mr. Allister remarked at one point during the day:

"We've been amazed at the number of common themes coming out, and this is certainly one of them."

Twelve-month, six-day use of the schools was advocated by the Victoria and District Parent-Teacher Council's committee on education.

The council's brief also called for greater use of teaching aids: television, programmed learning machines, and laymen to assist teachers.

A Victoria businessman has come forward with a solution to the subsidy problem of Sam's Meals On Wheels program. The solution is money.

James Anderson, who lives in Saanich and operates a hearing aid company in Victoria, has offered to put up $200 a month other businesses do the same. Saanich now is faced with the loss of a $2,000 subsidy which has been provided by a city service club.

"We are hoping for additional sponsors such as Mr. Anderson to come forward," said Ald. William Noel, chairman of the health and social services committee, "particularly in view of the fact that we may have to increase the price of meals."

Saanich now delivers hot meals daily to about 20 persons, mostly pensioners, unable to cook for themselves. Mr. Noel earlier said the present price of 50 cents might have to be raised to 75 cents because of rising costs.

"A few more sponsors would make up the difference," Mr. Anderson said Thursday. "If a businessman can't afford $200, maybe he can pay half the amount. We'll just need more contributors in that case."

Mr. Anderson said local businesses are supported by pensioners, "so let's reciprocate."

Swiftsure 1968 EntryRoyalty-Blessed Sloop Graces Island Scene

A sloop reportedly built to the specifications of a king has added a graceful touch to the Victoria sailing scene.

It is the 45-foot Gabrielle II, brought from Vancouver by owner Ralph Higgins to join the growing local fleet.

The Gabrielle II is a mahogany-planked beauty with glued seams, built in Sweden in 1947. Specifications are said to have been set by the King of Denmark.

Decks are teak, and cabin and trim in mahogany. The cabin interior is hand-rubbed mahogany. It carries 1,040 square feet of sail and has a 70-horsepower auxiliary engine.

Mr. Higgins plans to keep the Gabrielle II active on the racing circuit.

Some of the sophisticated racing gear includes three spinners, an automatic gauge in the cockpit for wind shifts, and a special spinner pole system. Gabrielle II will enter Swiftsure 1968 on June 1, flying the RCNSA banner.

Non-Payment of DuesCar Union Dropped
By U.S. Federation

WASHINGTON (UPI) — American labor titan George Meany and Walter Reuther ended a troubled, 12-year alliance Thursday when Reuther's giant United Auto Workers Union was dropped from the AFL-CIO for deliberate non-payment of dues.

The deep rift between the two men over the role and direction of the U.S. labor movement became final when Meany, the AFL-CIO president, invoked a provision in the federation's constitution automatically suspending any union affiliate that fails three months behind in dues.

LAST FRIDAY

The UAW membership made the break inevitable last Friday when it voted at its Atlantic City, N. J., convention to put the $270,000 in back dues in escrow until the federation called a special convention to hear the car workers' grievances.

They urged to postpone the final showdown until mid-December, after the November elections and its contract negotiations with the aerospace industry.

AN ULTIMATUM

But the AFL-CIO executive council voted to give the UAW until midnight Wednesday to pay up or get out.

When a UAW cheque for at least one month's dues — $90,000 — failed to arrive in the morning mail at AFL-CIO headquarters, Meany made the suspension official, informing Reuther and the federation's local leadership by letter.

There was every indication Reuther was seeking to form some new labor alliance rather than pay the dues and return to the federation fold, in which his 1,300,000 workers formed the largest of 29 member unions.

NO SIGN

He has already approached the biggest union in the country, the 1,800,000-member International Brotherhood of Teamsters, which was ousted from the AFL-CIO in 1957, as well as the International Longshore Workers Union on the west coast.

There was no sign either union was prepared to join Reuther's crusade. It was equally unclear whether Reuther planned to form a rival federation to the AFL-CIO or work with individual unions within the AFL-CIO.

Hall First Then City

ORILLIA, Ont. (CP) — Residents here have had a city hall since 1917 but the town did not become a city until recently. The Ontario Municipal Board approved the status change in 15 minutes. Orillia's population is 19,839 and the minimum for city status is 35,000.

Hong Kong Reunion

For the first time since its formation the Hong Kong Veterans' Association will hold a reunion in British Columbia—in Victoria Aug. 15 to 18.

About 300 veterans are expected at the joint reunion and national executive council convention in the Ingraham Hotel.

In Turin, Italy, the 80-year-old Reuther told newsmen at a meeting of the world car council of the International metalworkers federation of why the break with Meany, 73, occurred.

"We are trying to engage labor unions in an active organization of workers, not only in regard to salary problems but also economic and social problems on a wider scale," he said.

"The AFL-CIO, on the contrary, rests on its laurels and is content with the status quo. This is the principal reason for our disagreement."

'PROGRESSIVE'

He characterized the parent federation as conservative and his own union as "progressive."

The two men made labor history in late 1955 when they merged Meany's American Federation of Labor and Reuther's Congress of Industrial Organizations, with Meany as president of the federation and Reuther as vice-president and chairman of the 7,000,000-member industrial union department.

SOUR TURN

But their relations eventually soured over Reuther's prodding; insistence the federation assume responsibilities in such areas as civil rights and poverty and take a new approach to collective bargaining and organization.

Meany said the UAW is suspended not only from the federation itself but from the industrial union department, state and local AFL-CIO councils and any affiliated national or international union.

The car union paid an estimated $1,000,000 a year in dues, accounting for about one-eighth of the federation's revenues, but Meany said the AFL-CIO has a healthy funds surplus.

Children Seized on StreetMother Takes Son, Dying Daughter Across Border

OAKVILLE, Ont. (UPI) — The wife of a California financier drove here Wednesday night and seized her two children, one dying from leukemia, and took them to the United States, police reported Thursday.

Oakville police said Mrs. James Horsley, wife of a San Francisco financier, was accompanied by a private detective believed to be from Windsor, Ont., when she took her children, Valerie Martin, 8, and John Martin, 5, on an Oakville street Wednesday evening. Valerie is suffering from leukemia and doctors estimated she has only a year to live.

The children had been living with their father, Ronald Martin, an English teacher at Sheridan College here, while a five-year international custody case was fought in the courts. Mrs. Horsley recently was given custody under California law, but Martin had custody under Ontario statutes.

John and Valerie were taking a walk with their grandmother, Mrs. Pallela Martin, when a car with U.S. licence plates drove up. Mrs.

Martin was knocked down in a brief scuffle and the car drove off with the children.

Police said Horsley called them Thursday and assured them the children were with their mother "somewhere in the United States" and that "we are aware of Valerie's condition and will be sure that she receives proper medication."

An Oakville detective said the crown-attorney was being consulted as to possible legal action against Mrs. Horsley, but he said the only action believed possible at present was an assault charge. He said the grandmother, Mrs. Martin, suffered several bruises as a result of the scuffle but no charges had been brought as of Thursday afternoon.

Martin said Thursday he intended to go to California to continue his court fight for the children.

"This has been going on for five years," Martin said. "This is the second time the children have been taken from me. In 1963 it took me more than a year to locate them."

"It will be a severe blow to Valerie because of her condition," the father said.

television, Harriman said there are indications Hanoi was impressed by President Johnson's announcement March 31 that he is not running for another term.

STILL PRESIDENT
Harriman was asked if he thought North Vietnam wanted an agreement while Johnson was still in office.

"Well, you can draw that conclusion," he replied. "I have no basis for saying it, of course."

Harriman, Vance and other U.S. officials spent most of the day preparing for Saturday's session.

NO COMPROMISE
Nguyen Sao, a spokesman for the Hanoi delegation, told UPI his government is not prepared to compromise on the bombing halt.

"The bombing and all other acts of war must be stopped unconditionally first. We will only consider other questions after the bombing has been stopped."

He said the five points put forward by Harriman as a possible basis for a peace solution simply were an attempt to avoid "the most important and most urgent problem, which is unconditional cessation of bombing and other acts of war against the north."

WON'T WALK OUT
However, Sao said there is no question of Hanoi walking out of the talks if the U.S. refuses to budge on this.

"We have come here with good will," Sao said, "and we want to talk seriously."

How Miners Survived 10-Day Horror

Prayer, Six Sandwiches, Bad Water

By ROBERT WELLING
HOMINY FALLS, W. Va.
(UPI) — For 10 days they huddled behind their timber and canvassed barricade, facing slow death by starvation and praying for a miracle.

The last of their meager food — six sandwiches for six men — which they had rationed out by bites, had been eaten a week ago.

For seven days they survived on dirty, brackish mine water. They had to skim off the scum before they could stomach it.

But survive they did. The miracle happened.
At 1:30 A.M., EDT, Thursday, rescue worker Jim Blankenship of the U.S. Bureau of Mines found fresh footprints where the six were trapped 4,600 feet from the mouth of the Gouley Coal and Coke Co. pit in this area known as Green Valley.

SOGGY SANDWICHES
Then he found a lunch bucket containing two soggy, stale sandwiches.

Excited, Blankenship ran in the tunnel until he met Clyde Perry and Fred Castell, both also of the U.S. Bureau of Mines, an Kermit Stanley, owner of a small Green Valley coal mine.

The four ran back to the spot and a short distance away they found the 100-foot-long, 34-inch-high barricade the trapped men had erected with roof timbers and canvas against the water.

TEARS IN EYES

"I raised the curtain and Junior (John) Moore came out and put his arms around me. There were tears in his eyes. He didn't say a word for a while," Blankenship said.

"Then they swarmed over the barricade. The first thing they said was to ask about the 15 other men (trapped with them but rescued last Saturday after five days) and about their families. Then Junior said, 'we're ready to go.'" Blankenship said.

The last of the six men was led out of the mine at 4 a.m.,

232 hours after they were trapped at noon May 6 by a river of water which roared into their mine from abandoned workings they unwittingly cut into. Their maps showed the abandoned mine as being 350 feet away, but the maps were wrong.

Nineteen others were trapped with them. Fifteen were entombed in a 36-inch-high tunnel in another section of the mine for five days before they were rescued last Saturday.

QUICK DEATH

The four others, trapped with the six, were found dead, apparently drowned in the initial rush of water.

Doctors said the six survivors were "all in good physical shape."

From their clean hospital beds, their eyelids still encrusted with coal dust, the survivors told how "strict discipline" kept them together and alive and how they prayed daily for the "miracle" of rescue.

KEPT DIGGING

In their hearts they knew the shape of the miracle—the determination of their fellow miners to keep searching continuously, disregarding the danger to their own lives, until the trapped men were found—alive or dead, but found.

"I was a sinner when I went into that mine, but I came out a Christian," Joseph Fitzwater, 33, said. "Each day we grew weaker, but we kept our heads. We survived through the grace of God. It was a miracle of God's."

The second he merged from the mine, Edward Scarbro, 38, ran several hundred yards to the mine office to telephone his wife.

"Only stern discipline kept us alive," Scarbro said from his hospital bed. "We did everything together. First we built the barricade and decided how we would ration the sandwiches. We lay down together, we sat up together. We used rolls of bradish (a plastic-like material used as covering material in mines) to wrap around ourselves and keep warm."

NBODDY LEFT

"At no time did any man try to leave and make it on his own," survivor Eugene Martin, 34, said.

Martin said Larry Lynch, 28, a part-time minister, "was the one to lead us."

"He was the only true Christian... He helped us a lot... We spent much of our time praying... He held long prayer sessions."

PRIVATE DIARY

Moore, the survivors' foreman, kept a diary of their entombment. He would not let newsmen see it "because some of it is very personal."

"I'm going to add to it and then give a copy to each man," he said.

Newsmen were not able to talk with the sixth survivor, Jennings Lilly, 30. A hospital spokesman said he had an intestinal ailment, probably from drinking the mine water.

For Vanished Victorian

Memorial Service Soon

A memorial service for Reginald Thurber, the Victoria consulting firm president who vanished during a flight between Enderby, B.C., and Rocky Mountain House, Alta., on Jan. 8, will be held at First United Church at 11 a.m. May 25.

The search for Mr. Thurber, head of R. C. Thurber and Associates, was abandoned Feb. 8.

Ferry Disaster

CALCUTTA, India (CP) — A man, two women and an eight-year-old girl were killed and 36 others are missing after a ferry carrying 55 Hindu pilgrims struck a buoy and capsized in the Ganges River near Calcutta.

Mr. Thurber, who was born in Bear River, Nova Scotia, and graduated from the University of Alberta in 1949. He has resided in B.C. since that time.

An elder in the First United Church, he was also active in flying groups and engineering societies.

Mr. Thurber is survived by his wife and three children. The memorial service will be conducted by Rev. R. J. D. Morris.

Presidential Election

Panama Refuses To Name Winner

PANAMA CITY (LAT.) — The continued delay by the government-controlled national electoral tribunal of an announcement of the winner of Panama's presidential election last Sunday has brought increasing suspicion of fraud.

Many neutral observers believe that opposition candidate Dr. Arnulfo Arias defeated government-backed candidate David Samudio. But so far the country has been given no official word, leaving it in a state of dangerous anxiety.

Both sides are claiming victory and neither seems inclined to accept defeat. More violence is expected to match that of Sunday, Monday and Tuesday seems inevitable when the outcome is announced, and it may be for this reason that the tribunal is holding off.

Latest unofficial figures from the Arias camp give him 173,597 votes to 127,752 for Samudio. Samudio's newspaper El Mundo, on the other hand, gives him a slight edge, with 154,950 votes to 152,770 for Arias.

If Arias is denied the presidency through some kind of chicanery, some of his more militant supporters think there will be rioting that could lead to civil war.

Since incumbent President Marco Robles' term does not expire until Oct. 1, other observers believe the government may hold off a decision for two or three months until tempers cool and a compromise can be reached.

However, others say the situation could worsen to the point where the military may deem it necessary to take over.

"No single man or government can make a nation great"

Robert Stanfield, May 1st, 1968.

Bob Stanfield is asking us all — every Canadian who cares about his country — to help him make Canada great.

No single man or government can do the job without the support of the people. Bob Stanfield wants us to participate by giving him our time, thought, work and money. Let's help him.

Bob Stanfield does not pretend to have all the answers. But he does have successful, practical experience. He does have the courage, discipline and strength required to get the answers.

All of us must work together to create a Canada that "will not be governed by a little group in Ottawa".

Participate with Bob Stanfield. Support Stanfield now.

WE TOOK THE ENGINE OUT OF THE LOADSPACE (IT STARTED A WHOLE CHAIN OF BETTER IDEAS)

New! 302 cu. in. V-8 available. Choice of two economy Sixes — 170 cu. in. or 240 cu. in. — or big new Ford 302 V-8. Manual or Cruise-O-Matic transmissions.

New! Engine clear of loadspace. Engine's shifted 22 inches forward, completely out of load area. New "sandwich" insulation in cover blocks heat and noise.

New! Driver "walk-thru." Step back into the cargo area from the driver's seat. You no longer have to walk around the van and open side doors to reach forward part of load.

We moved the engine forward to give you 23% more floor area

New! Biggest loadspace. 23% more clear floor area than in other vans. Ford Vans now offer over 8½ ft. load length; SuperVans over 10 ft.

New! Payloads up to 3540 lbs. Only Ford offers three series to choose from... 600 lbs. more top payload than other vans!

ALL-NEW FORD ECONOLINE VANS

New! Long-wheelbase stability. Forward location of front axles stretches wheelbases to 105.5" for Van, 123.5" for SuperVan. Helps make Econolines the steadiest vans on the road.

New! Wider stance handling ease. New 7-inch wider track for new stability. Quicker, easier maneuverability too!

So many better ideas they make all other vans obsolete.

Moving the engine forward began it all. Load length increased. Clear floor area became 23% greater than in other vans. And with the engine out of the way, the driver gained new access to the rear load area; engine servicing became possible from outside the van. Next, we boosted payloads — up to 3540 lbs. And when we added Twin-I-Beam front suspension for easy ride, plus an optional 302 cu. in. V-8 for powerful performance, the sum of Ford's better ideas was a better van...all around!

New! Twin-I-Beam ride. The front suspension made famous in Ford pickups... two front axles for strength and stability, coil springs for easy ride.

New! Outside service center. Just lift the chest-high hood to check oil, water, battery, voltage regulator, brake master cylinder and more. Everything is easy to reach.

Bond Interest May Have To Increase

By HARRY YOUNG
Business Editor

Will B.C. be forced to increase the interest on its parity bonds as Quebec has done with its savings bonds, to meet the new challenge of higher rates on Canada Savings Bonds?

To prevent a run on its provincial savings bonds, the Quebec government Thursday took the precautionary measure of increasing the interest rate from 5 1/2 per cent to 7 1/2 per cent as a sequel to the new public offering of Canada Savings Conversion bonds by Ottawa.

B.C. parity bonds, which like the Quebec and Canada savings bonds can be cashed at face value at any time, also have a 5 1/2 per cent interest rate. Finance Minister Bennett was not in his office Thursday to discuss the situation.

The new Canada issue gives a yield of 6.88 per cent, and was originally offered only to holders of the 1959 issue due for redemption in November.

More than $200,000,000 of the bonds were not exchanged, and the government threw the conversion series open to all applicants.

Investment houses, banks and trust companies reported only a moderate demand for the new bonds, but the general opinion was that the balance of the issue will be subscribed by the end of this week.

The expectation is that most of the bonds will be paid for by sale of other securities such as the provincial savings and parity bonds, and earlier Canada Savings Bonds issues.

"So far we have had few B.C. parity bonds turned in for redemption to pay for the new Canadas, but this could happen before the federal finance minister closes his office," said one local dealer.

A banker said the demand for the Canada bonds so far was "modest" but he did not think the offer had received sufficient publicity to make people interested. He expected faster action today.

An increase in the free price of gold and another advance in the premium British investors are willing to pay for dollar stocks was taken Thursday as further signs that the pound sterling may be facing a second devaluation.

The price of free gold in London rose to $41.35 an ounce, the highest it has ever been on that market, and in New York the firm of Engelhard was buying at $41.50.

Although demand for gold was said to be moderate, there was very little gold available on the market, and bullion dealers said that buyers had taken "very much the upper hand."

South Africa is apparently still resisting the temptation of selling its new gold in this market.

OUT OF STERLING

On the London Stock Exchange, the dollar premium rose to a new peak on 5 1/2 per cent before settling to 5 1/4 per cent.

British buyers of Canadian or U.S. stocks have to pay their premium over the market value to acquire dollar shares. With devaluation again in the wind many of them think this premium to be worthwhile insurance against further sterling losses.

Canadian stocks have been very strong recently on the London exchange. Inco, International Nickel B-A Oil and the Canadian bank shares have been particularly attractive to British investors.

Apart altogether from devaluation fears, British investors prefer to take a chance on foreign stocks because domestic issues are tied down by government regulations in the amounts they can pay out in dividends.

DIGEST OFFERS SHARE

The issue which will make Readers Digest of Canada a public company is being put on the market this week.

About 25 per cent of the outstanding shares are being offered to the Canadian public at $11 a share. The remainder is held by the U.S. parent company.

Last year a 40 cents dividend was paid on the stock.

Readers Digest was first published in February, 1922. Reg Elliott, securities manager of the Bank of Montreal in Victoria, tells me he has a copy of the original edition.

DON LEE FINANCES

The first public issue of shares in Don Lee Manufacturing Industries of Toronto has been placed this week on the market at $9.50 a share. Involved are 112,000 common shares, of which 75,000 are out of the treasury and the remainder by shareholders of predecessor companies.

Don Lee is a manufacturer of car and farm equipment parts and also provides stainless steel equipment for nuclear reactors.

Migration Reflects Economy

Less People Come to Canada

OTTAWA (CP) — Tumbling immigration to Canada in the first quarter of 1968 has been tied to a lack of employment and a reduction in advertising overseas.

The quarterly report issued Thursday showed 35,601 immigrants to March 31, compared with 43,989 in the same period of 1967.

The report followed another from the Dominion Bureau of Statistics showing higher 1968 unemployment across the country.

OCCUPATION SHORTAGE

"The lower figure corresponds essentially to a reduction in occupational shortages in Canada," the immigration department said of its first-quarter statistics.

"Fewer employers have had to rely on workers from overseas to meet their requirements and there is less incentive to come to Canada."

OLDER PEOPLE

British emigration in particular was hit by this and the reduction in the advertising budget, which began six months ago but also reflects a federal austerity campaign here.

First-quarter migration from England dropped to 4,771 from 9,075 last year. The Scottish figure fell to 1,393 from 3,317 last year. The only age categories in which immigration rose in the first quarter were the over-60s groups.

The only occupational category that rose was mining, with 170 immigrants compared with 68 last year.

The professional and technical group fell to 4,846 from 5,071. The manufacturing, mechanical and construction group was 6,833 against 8,421 last year.

Immigration policy is selective in that immigrants are chosen for their skill and the demand for it in Canada.

A decrease in demand is thus automatically reflected in the figures.

The 1967 total was 222,000, one of the highest on record and perhaps the peak of a boom that began in 1964. In the early 1960s, low immigration figures reflected a period of high unemployment.

Italians Goaded By Reds

HONG KONG (Reuters) — Ten Italians have arrived in Hong Kong after being expelled from China in what they described as "a big misunderstanding" involving the Pope and a plaque the Chinese thought was of the Virgin Mary.

Maner Lualdi, 56, leader of the group, said they had refused a Chinese demand that they sign a declaration that the Pope is "in the service of the Western capitalistic powers."

The Italians left Vatican City Dec. 11 to drive through 23 countries to China to mark the 60th anniversary of a Peking-to-Paris road race.

They also carried with them a bronze plaque from the Milan trade fair to the Canton trade fair as a gesture of goodwill. It depicted a symbol of a woman holding the city of Milan in her arms.

If you are wondering what to do this holiday weekend go fishing. Reports are good and the weather outlook is good. Trout fishing is at its best in all lakes. Salmon fishing is reported good. There are several derbies to fish.

The only enemy of fishermen is possible winds that could keep them off the water or make things a little uncomfortable. Saanich Inlet still provides the most exciting news. "There are more fish in all parts of Saanich Inlet than there has been in the past 10 years," says veteran Brentwood guide Jim Gilbert. Tod Inlet has been producing well for big springs in the evening, but the fantastic fishing for heavyweight springs in the highest teens and 20s has been in Finlayson Arm. Deep Cove has also been producing.

There are so many fish in the Inlet at the popular spots that there are some areas, which must contain fish, that people haven't even bothered to fish says Gilbert.

Victoria-Saanich Inlet Anglers' Association Chinook Club will hold its second in a series of Sunburn Derbies Sunday from dawn to 2 p.m., with weigh-ins at Hall's, Brentwood Boat Rentals and Anglers-Anchorage, and prize presentation at Anchorage at 2 p.m.

The Alert Service-Stockers annual fishing derby will be open to the public this year and is scheduled for June 2 in Saanich Inlet from 6 a.m. to 11 a.m., with weigh-ins at Gilbert's Marina and prizegiving in the Brentwood Women's Institute Hall at 12 noon with free coffee and doughnuts.

Wind has been a problem since the weekend, but Oak Bay-Victoria-Pedder Bay and Becher Bay are all good bets for spring salmon fishing. The grise seem to have moved on. The bluebacks, which are now better than three pounds and approaching the King Fisherman Contest five-pound minimum, are now spread out from Nanaimo to Nanosee and Northwest Bay and there is a good concentration feeding on shrimp and minnows off French Creek.

John Cushing reports some are showing at Deep Bay and he is expecting this holiday weekend will be a repeat of last year when there was fantastic fishing on the holiday weekend. Deep Bay is usually the first place to weigh-in King Fisherman qualifying coho.

Spring season fishing has been fair off Comox, but Comox Bay itself is closed now until midnight June 23 to allow escape of summer-run springs to the Puntledge River.

There is a good concentration of blues north of Campbell River from Brown's Bay to Rock Bay.

Outlook for freshwater fishing is excellent.

Bill Heybrock reports that fishing with Roy Derome in Lower Campbell Lake by the rock cuts Wednesday he ran into the "most fantastic fly fishing I have ever had on Vancouver Island." He was using a small midge fly on number 8, 10 and 12 hooks, fished deep and very slowly. John and Beverley Ebert reported similar success from the same lake.

And this is the big weekend for the Campbell River area lakes. The Campbell River Lions Club will hold its annual trout derby Sunday, open to anyone trout fishing in the Campbell River area.

Weigh-in will be at McIvor Lake until 5 p.m. and at Loveland Lake until 4 p.m. and a big pancake and ham and egg breakfast will be held at McIvor Lake Sunday morning.

That is where the King Fisherman Contest Vancouver Island Helicopters trip where Bert and Mary Humphries will be waiting this weekend on their prize trip and they will be flying in for breakfast and again in the afternoon to enter their fish.

We will be heading for Cowichan Lake where both RCN Anglers' Association and the St. Louis Men's Club will be holding trout derbies on Saturday.

The St. Louis Men's Derby is open to all anglers and there will be a special $100 prize for the person who guesses closest to the correct number of fish entered.

Prize for the heaviest fish will be a $150 Polaroid camera and the youngest, 15 years and under, with the biggest fish will win a walke talkie set. Derby will run from 5 a.m. to 5 p.m., with prizegiving at the St. Louis Hall in Cowichan Lake at 6 p.m.

The RCNA derby will be confined to the south arm of the lake, including the narrows and will be from dawn to 2 p.m., with prize presentation at 3 p.m. at Bert Dodd's wharf, between Honeycomb Bay and Gordon Bay, which will be marked by a flag. Weigh-in will be at Dodd's wharf and at Cedar Resort, three miles past Riverside Inn on the Youbou wharf.

Fishing outlook for Cowichan Lake is also excellent. Cutthroat have been feeding on fry and small spoons have been most successful.

Rainbow were still sluggish mid-week after last weekend's black and hatch, but they will undoubtedly be on the feed for Saturday.

Great Central and Sprout Lakes have been providing some good trout fishing, and any Vancouver Island lake should be a hot spot this weekend.

Victoria Fish and Game Club will hold its meeting Tuesday next week, instead of the usual Monday, because of the holiday weekend and an outstanding program of color slides of a recent safari to Uganda by Victoria hunters Norman Loughhead, George Farmer, Bob Gale and Al Abernethy and their wives is scheduled with everyone welcome to attend.

The group recently returned from Africa where Farmer bagged a record leopard and the whole party fished for huge perch up to 50 pounds, in the Nile River.

On their trip through Uganda they had three professional hunters, 23 Africans, three Land Rovers, three large trucks and radio-telephone.

Meeting starts at 8 p.m. in the Goldstream Clubhouse.

Four City Players At Soccer Trials

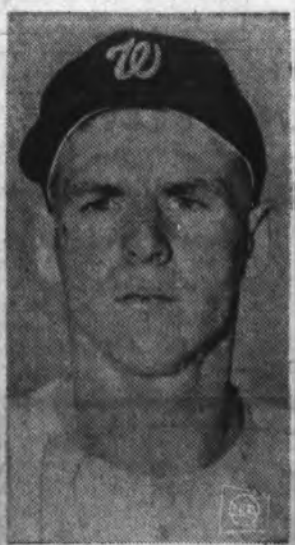

Four local players have received invitations to a 30-player invitational tryout camp in Vancouver Friday, Saturday and Sunday held under the joint sponsorship of Vancouver Royals of the North American Soccer League and the B.C. Soccer Commission.

The four are Iles MacKay, a member of the Canadian Pan-American Games' team, Brian Robinson and Marty Taylor, all members of the Pacific Coast Soccer League champions, Victoria O'Keefe's; and Bruce Twissley, the B.C. Juvenile Association's soccer boy of 1968, at 16, the youngest player invited.

The Royals are looking for prospective professional players

Frank Howard
... on a tear

Senator Slugger On Homer Spree

That Washington Senators can feel they have a chance to finish in the American League's first division this year seems back to a trade they made with Los Angeles Dodgers on Dec. 4, 1964.

That's the day they got outfielder-first baseman Frank Howard, along with pitchers Phil Ortega and Pete Reichert and infielder Ken McMullen in return for pitcher Claude Osteen, infielder John Kennedy and an estimated $100,000 in cash.

GIVES BALL A RIDE

Howard, six feet, seven inches tall and 250 pounds, was no shoo on defence, didn't run too fast and didn't hit for average but he certainly could give the ball a ride when he connected.

He had hit 123 home runs in five seasons for the Dodgers, always looking like a super star but never reaching the status.

Additional Sport Pages 17, 19, 20

He hit 21 and then 18 in his first two seasons with the Senators but there was a definite promise last season when he hit 36 home runs.

At the rate he's going this season, he could threaten Roger Maris' record of 61 in a season. Howard connected twice yesterday, each time with Sam Bowens on base, as the Senators defeated Sam McDowell and the Cleveland Indians, 4-1.

YANKS BLOW LEAD

Howard now has a major league high of 14 home runs from the Senators first 31 games, and his pair of two-run shots yesterday made it seven in four games to tie the American League record set by Tony Lazzeri in 1936 and tied by Gus Zernial in 1951.

The Washington slugger stole some of the headlines which on an ordinary day would have been reserved for New York Yankees.

Now fallen on evil days, the Transfer to Vancouver Will Be Asked by Seals

NEW YORK (CP)—Oakland Seals will fulfil a commitment to Labatt Breweries of Canada Ltd., by making application to the National Hockey League in June for permission to move the franchise to Vancouver.

The brewing firm advanced the funds with which the financially-ailing Oakland club this month finished paying for its NHL expansion franchise. In return, Oakland agreed to co-operate with Labatt's in exploring the possibility of moving the franchise to the Canadian West Coast city.

Details of the transaction were explained Thursday by Brent von Gerbig, Oakland representative on the NHL board of governors, and Frank Tatum, alternate representative and club lawyer, at a press conference here.

Several hours earlier, at an intermission in the NHL governors' meeting, league president Clarence Campbell made the bold announcement that Oakland had given notice of its intention to apply for permission to switch the franchise, effective next season.

Such a transfer would require approval of nine of the 12 governors.

Everybody knows that because of internal conditions our franchise was in serious trouble," von Gerbig said in explaining the franchise-switch application.

JUST ONE OFFER

"Labatt's was the only entity to come forward and offer us relief. For that I am extremely grateful."

"In return, Labatt's asked us to be able to take a look at the possibility of transferring the franchise."

Oakland agreed, and Labatt's put up "substantial all" of the $680,000 which the Seals forwarded to the NHL this week to complete payment for its franchise.

"The Labatt money is in the form of an advance," said Tatum.

"What it ends up being depends on where the franchise ends up. If in Vancouver, it becomes a Labatt equity. If it stays in Oakland, Labatt is a VANCOUVER (CP)—Vancouver Canucks served notice Thursday that the Western Hockey League club will make formal application for a Vancouver NHL franchise at the June 19 annual meeting of the league. It means that the league will have two applications for a Vancouver franchise before it.

creditor, having given us a term loan."

The arrangements he described are unchanged from those that became public in March. At a March 19 meeting here, the NHL board issued a formal statement which "re-affirmed its position that the NHL franchise will remain in the San Francisco-Oakland area," and added that Vancouver, an unsuccessful bidder for an expansion franchise, "will be considered as a prime location for any further NHL expansion at such time as it may occur."

Tatum said Labatt representatives are working on the problem of clearing the way for NHL entry into Vancouver, where the Western Hockey League and Vancouver Canucks have territorial rights.

"The Labatt people have been talking to the Canucks people, including Coley Hall. Whether the Canucks people have been talking to the NHL we don't know."

Van Gerbig said control would be in the hands of Canadians if the franchise goes to Vancouver.

Van Gerbig said control would question of turning the franchise back to the league if the governors vote down the Vancouver move.

The governors, who will continue their meeting today, decided on a 76-game schedule for each team next season — two more than last season — with East and West Division clubs meeting six times instead of four.

Campbell, reporting on their deliberations, said the governors

New High School Trophy Honors Mitchell Memory

A new trophy will be awarded today at the 22nd annual inter-high school track and field meet which starts at 10:30 a.m. at Centennial Stadium, for boys 100-yard dash.

The Harry Mitchell Memorial Trophy, donated in honor of a former coach and performer with Victoria "Y" team and a long-time starter at the high school meets, who died during the past year.

Oak Bay will be defending five trophies—the Roy Jones Memorial Trophy as meet champions, the Hocking and Forbes Trophies for winning the boys' and girls' titles, the Woodward's Trophy for the girls' sprint title and the T. Eaton Trophy for the girls' medley relay championship.

Claremont is defending the Greater Victoria Inter-High School Trophy and the Runner-Up Trophy and the boys' mile relay award, the Bay Trophy, Mt. Douglas won the Humbler Brothers Trophy for the boys' sprint relay last year.

The other schools competing are Victoria, Esquimalt and Mount View.

Molsons Get Win On Jay's Pitching

Jay struck out nine batters and allowed just two hits while Wade struck out five and allowed four hits.

Carlings protested the game in the third inning on an umpire's decision.

The special nine-team tournament starts tonight with Bete Construction meeting Red Lion Inn at 6:45 at Central.

The other teams in the tournament, which winds up Monday, are O'Keefe's, Molsons, Nanaimo Tally-Ho, Colony Inn, Auburn, Wash., Seattle Goldentides and Tacoma Whitestones.

IMPORTANT NEWS FOR EVERY SMOKER IN CANADA

IMPERIAL TOBACCO INTRODUCES RICHMOND: WORLD'S ONLY STRICKMAN FILTER CIGARETTE

On February 28, 1968, Imperial Tobacco announced the signing of a licensing agreement with the Robert L. Strickman Foundation for the use of the Strickman filter on a Canadian cigarette. Imperial was the first tobacco company to obtain such a licence. This agreement was the culmination of six months' negotiations and research between Imperial and the Strickman scientists.

WHAT IS THE STRICKMAN FILTER?

This is a completely new type of cigarette filter. Thousands of tiny polymer granules are enclosed between conventional cellulose filters to give RICHMOND filtering efficiency unlike any other cigarette.

HOW DOES IT AFFECT TASTE? Since February, Imperial has been experimenting with many recipes of the finest Virginia tobacco to get the one best suited to the Strickman filter... and the one best suited to Canadian tastes. All tests now confirm that Imperial has found the right combination. RICHMOND does meet the high degree of filter efficiency specified by the Strickman Foundation. Its flavour has been approved for Canadian smokers through a rigid series of scientifically-designed taste-tests.

WHAT SHOULD YOU EXPECT FROM RICHMOND?

With RICHMOND, you can now experience the rewards of a better cigarette with the benefits of the Strickman filter. What's more, you will experience a new sensation in smoking. RICHMOND is more comfortable to smoke. Not hot. Not harsh. Not dry. In fact, the RICHMOND sensation is so comfortable all you feel is flavour. Try the world's first Strickman filter cigarette. Enjoy the new RICHMOND sensation today.

S THIS SYMBOL IS YOUR GUARANTEE THAT RICHMOND MEETS THE HIGH DEGREE OF FILTRATION SPECIFIED BY THE ROBERT L. STRICKMAN FOUNDATION INC.

THERE IS ONLY ONE STRICKMAN FILTER...

Back-Muscle Spasms Hospitalize Worsley

MONTREAL (UPI) — Lorne Worsley, it was reported yesterday by Montreal Canadiens, suffered acute back-muscle spasms at a reception Wednesday night and is expected to be released from hospital within two days.

The veteran National Hockey League goalkeeper slumped over the head table during the dinner and was rushed to hospital. X-rays taken proved negative and Worsley's condition was reported as greatly improved yesterday.

Worsley was knocked unconscious in a goalmouth collision with Bobby Hull during a Stanley Cup game against Chicago Black Hawks on April 25 and suffered a badly sprained neck.

He missed the next game of the semi-finals but played in all four games of the final.

Clay Proposes Three-man Fightoff for 'Real' Title

CHICAGO (AP) — Cassius Clay, has proposed a three-man, multi-million-dollar fight off for charity to decide the real heavyweight boxing champion before he goes to jail.

"I expect to go to jail," the 25-year-old deposed but undefeated titleholder said.

"Maybe in two months, maybe more — it's in the hands of the Supreme Court. But before I go, I'd like to see this heavyweight problem settled once and for all."

"I would be willing to fight Joe Frazier and Jimmy Ellis with 15 minutes rest between bouts, but I know the commissions wouldn't allow that. So we could stage one fight on Saturday night and the other one on Monday night — or maybe a week apart. We should hold it in the biggest outdoor stadium in the world. It would bring in millions of dollars. Half of the proceeds could go to a poverty fund. The other half could be distributed equally among the fighters."

"Let me fight Joe Frazier or Jimmy Ellis first and then whoever wins that fight, let him take on the other man. If I lose, I'll gladly hand over this belt. It's my belt. There will never be a real champion until somebody takes it away from me."

"But nobody recognizes anybody but me as champion," Clay said. "A lot of people are protesting. They will call whoever wins 'the white man's champion' unless he beats me."

Labor-Education Portfolio Split Soon?

Oak Bay May Vote in Late July

By IAN STREET
from Vancouver

Voters in Oak Bay, as well as two other B.C. ridings where provincial byelections are slated for this summer, can expect to go to the polls in an unusual late July vote, Premier Bennett indicated in Vancouver Thursday night.

He also told a packed rally, winding up the Socred campaign for next Tuesday's Vancouver South byelection, that the province will have a full-time education minister "sooner than you think."

The premier later told reporters both disclosures were "planned announcements" but he refused to elaborate.

Earlier, during the inaugural trip of the new Howe Sound ferry, Queen of the Sunshine Coast, Mr. Bennett has said all three provincial byelections following next Tuesday's vote would be held on the same day.

He was asked whether a date would be chosen shortly after the June 25 federal election. The premier replied he didn't want the provincial contests to clash with the national one. Then he suggested some time shortly after mid-

July might be more appropriate.

When it was noted that a July voting date would conflict with the holiday season, Mr. Bennett retorted: "What's more important, democracy or a holiday? It only takes a couple of minutes to vote."

During the question period at Thursday's election rally, held in the Fraserview Boys' Club auditorium before an overflow crowd of nearly 600, one member of the audience asked whether the premier would attend a Socred function in North Vancouver on July 22.

Mr. Bennett replied: "I might be in other provincial byelections at that time."

He explained later to reporters, that he had already promised a series of summer byelections to fill vacancies caused by the resignations of Liberals MLAs in Oak Bay and North Vancouver Capilano, and a New Democrat in Revelstoke.

The announcement about a full-time education minister also came during the question period. A man, who did not identify himself, repeated the question put many times to government ministers — When will the dual portfolios of education and labor, now held by Leslie Peterson, be split?

Mr. Bennett said there would be a full-time minister of education sooner than people thought, but when pressed for an explanation afterwards he would only say that he did not stipulate the education job would go to Mr. Peterson.

The education minister, who was one of several speakers at the rally in support of Socred candidate George Wainborn, said he had no prior warning of the proposal to split labor and education duties in the cabinet.

When he shuffled his cabinet recently Mr. Bennett said further changes would be made after the forthcoming byelection vote. His latest statement indicates the cabinet changes might be completed only after the holding of the three byelections in late July.

The premier was in fighting form when he addressed the rally, charging that the NDP and Liberals are holding no public meetings in Vancouver South because they are afraid to face the public and answer questions concerning their criticism of the government.

Mr. Bennett urged voters in the riding to be as critical of the government as they liked, because he said the Socreds were only human, but he pleaded for them not to let "little prejudices or the poison someone is putting in your mind" to blind them to the achievements of the past 16 years.

The public doesn't want socialism, the premier said, but he warned that the NDP should not be allowed to sneak in by the back door.

With the resignation of provincial Liberal leader Ray Perrault and Alan Macfarlane in Oak Bay, Mr. Bennett said, there are only four of that party's six MLAs left. He told the rally: "Two down, and only four to go."

The NDP, then the CCF, in 1952 had 18 out of 48 seats in the legislature, and today has only 18 of 55 seats, he said. The premier added: "If that's progress, then sock it to them, my friends."

Randolph Harding, NDP member for Revelstoke-Slocan, resigned to run federally in Kootenay West, reducing the number of seats held by the official opposition to 15.

'St. Louis College Dead'—Bishop

Elementary Survival Prime Task

By BILL STAVDAL

Bishop Remi de Roo told Victoria Catholics Thursday that St. Louis College is dead, and that they must now fight to save the Catholic elementary schools.

The bishop made the declaration before an overflow crowd of more than 250 people in the basement auditorium of the 104-year-old boys' school.

Failure of a fund-raising campaign was blamed last week when the decision was announced to close the school in June. The announcement raised criticism of the bishop which he appeared Thursday to answer.

SOME CRITICS
The bishop was applauded frequently, although there was a significant percentage of the audience critical of the decision to close the school.

Angry criticism was directed at the provincial government for its refusal to grant financial support to independent schools.

"The basis of the problem is political," said one man.

The bishop refused to air the political issue and conducted the meeting as an examination of his own actions.

A $670,000 renovation and expansion project for St. Louis raised only $115,945 in pledges, the bishop told the meeting.

In a prepared statement he said: "The announcement last week by the chairman of the regional Catholic school board to close St. Louis College followed my decision that a capital investment to expand the school could not be undertaken at this time.

ALL CONSULTED
"My decision followed the recommendation of the diocesan senate, who consulted all the parishes of the city as well as professional financial advisers.

"The opinion of the advisers, the conclusion of the majority of parishes, was that the project was not feasible. The unanimous conclusion of the senate was that it was impossible to go forward with the project.

"It was upon all this advice that my final decision was made."

WOULD QUIT

At one point Bishop de Roo offered to submit his resignation "as an inept administrator" if proof were submitted that he had done the wrong thing.

The offer was met with cries of "no."

One speaker, Rev. Father M. J. McNamara, said the fund drive failed because it did not have the support of all the clergy of the city, as well as the laity. He offered figures suggesting that the college renovation could have been financed, but the bishop replied that St. Andrew's Cathedral did not have the borrowing power.

YEARS AGO

The bishop declared: "I hate to say this, but St. Louis died several years ago."

He said the school died in the minds of those who were too apathetic to fight for its survival.

He said at another point: "If we do not rally and do something more than talk, we're going to lose the rest of our schools in short order."

YEAR LONGER

He said that Sacred Heart elementary school in Saanich "will go down the drain" in a year if no more support is forthcoming. A decision to close was made recently, and the school is remaining open a year longer only because of his personal appeal, he reported.

"The problem is not: could we raise enough to save St. Louis," he said. "The problem is: are we going to rally fast enough to save the rest of the schools."

"I'm not prepared to risk a new building (the St. Louis project) if we may lose both."

NOT SECOND CHANCE

The bishop told one woman questioner: "It's not a question of a second chance (for St. Louis). It's a matter of sheer impossibility."

The bishop made an eloquent appeal for improvement of the pay and working conditions of teachers in Catholic schools.

"We can no longer continue to ask the religious brothers and sisters to teach with the inhuman facilities and absolutely inadequate salaries we are giving them," he said.

He spoke of "starvation conditions" and said the teachers are subsidizing the community through their zeal.

Campus Tender Decided
By Flip of Coin

The toss of a penny decided who would build a $300,000 office structure now going up at the University of Victoria. City contractors George Farmer and George Wheaton flipped the coin May 6 after submitting identical low bids of $289,683 on the project.

Mr. Farmer, called tails and won the job.

The one-storey, frame structure will house about 60 offices of the English department, seminar rooms and the president's office. It will relieve crowding in the MacLaurin (educational) building.

The board of governors has named it the Sedgewick Building, honoring Dr. G. G. Sedgewick, head of the English department at the University of British Columbia from 1918 to 1948.

The building is expected to be ready for university opening in September. It will be located between the MacLaurin and Cornett (social sciences) buildings.

Mr. Farmer said Thursday bids were opened at the beginning of the month. There were eight tenders, ranging as high as $329,000.

"It was sort of mutually agreed," said Mr. Farmer. "We met in the chancellor's office. Dick Wilson (university chancellor R. B. Wilson) gave us a U.S. penny—I've still got it."

The UVic gamble wasn't the first such for Mr. Farmer. "Twelve years ago I tossed a coin in an architect's office," he recalled.

"That time I lost."

Gorst Withdraws

It's Anderson
—First Ballot

By JOHN MATTERS

David Anderson, 31-year-old pilot, Olympic rower, economist and lawyer, Thursday night won the controversial Liberal nomination in Esquimalt-Saanich riding.

Back in the running for the candidacy was James Gorst, whose April 22 nomination was invalidated by provincial Liberal directors. However, he suddenly and unexpectedly withdrew at the end of a 10-minute speech.

Defeated on the first ballot were William Haley, a Saanich school teacher, and James Campbell, a sheep rancher from Saturna Island.

CREDENTIALS CHECK

This means the three-hour meeting at Craigflower school, which was stalled for 45 minutes while the credentials committee decided who was eligible to vote, sent Mr. Anderson into the fray with Progressive Conservative incumbent George Chatterton and Donald Johannessen, the NDP hopeful, in the June 23 general election.

Mr. Gorst, a taxi operator, said his previous nomination was upset on a "transparent technicality" and he had not seen anything like it during the 20 years he has been with the Liberal party at the provincial and federal levels.

'CANNOT ACCEPT'

He claimed the re-run was "contrived" and "I cannot accept the decision to cancel that meeting."

Mr. Anderson, nominated by Esquimalt Mayor Ray Bryant was an expert on China with the External Affairs Department before he returned to Victoria, his hometown, last weekend.

He is the son of Dr. and Mrs. J. W. Anderson and was schooled at the old Victoria College and University of British Columbia.

MAIN ISSUE

Mr. Anderson said national unity was the most important issue in this country and Prime Minister Trudeau can resolve the problems.

"If we can translate Trudeau to the voters of Esquimalt-Saanich, we can win," he told the 150 people at the meeting, 87 of whom were qualified to vote for a nominee.

"My view is national unity might cease and we could be faced with the problems of two Canadas."

KEY IN B.C.

He suggested that whether Prime Minister Trudeau is returned to office with a majority government depended on Liberal successes in this province.

Mr. Gorst had kept everyone guessing since his nomination was upset. He would not say before whether he would seek the candidacy Thursday night.

His earlier nomination, at which he was chairman of the meeting, was invalidated on the grounds that insufficient notice was given of the convention.

TRUE LIBERAL

John Paul, who nominated him, said he had been a Liberal for the last 20 years and has shown he is "a true Liberal in fair and foul weather."

When Mr. Gorst contested Esquimalt-Saanich in the 1965 federal election, "a lot of Liberals never came near us," he said.

Nevertheless, he collected 10,000 votes and "he deserves recognition for the work he has done," said Mr. Paul.

Saanich
Honoring
Pearkes

Lieutenant-Governor Pearkes and Mrs. Pearkes will be the first freemen of Saanich municipality.

The civic honor will be conferred on them at a date to be fixed by a special council meeting, Mayor Hugh Curtis said Thursday.

He said it would be held some time after Mr. Pearkes' retirement, expected June 30.

"We'd like to make it a homecoming to Saanich," the mayor said.

The Pearkes' home is on Tattersall Drive. They have been working on it recently in preparation for their return.

"I'm particularly pleased that the honor is going to both," Mayor Curtis said.

Year's Jail
Imposed
On Driver

A 28-year-old Victoria man was sentenced to a year imprisonment Thursday for criminally negligent driving that resulted in the death of car dealer Clifford Horwood.

Louis Durham, 123 Wilson, also was ordered not to drive anywhere in Canada for four years by Mr. Justice J. A. MacDonald in British Columbia Supreme Court.

Durham was charged after Mr. Horwood and his wife, Pearl; Mrs. Eleanor Tait and Mrs. Martha Bannerman died in a collision 12 miles north of Victoria on the night of Feb. 17.

Back 'by Weekend'
Word on Hydrofoil

By DON COLLINS

By now, William Niedermair of Seattle is used to fielding embarrassing questions.

People used to ask him if he was serious about starting a hydrofoil service between Seattle and Victoria.

He answered that question Wednesday when, after years of delays, a hydrofoil named Victoria made the first round trip.

NEW QUESTION

By Thursday there was a new question: Was the service just meant to last one day?

This was prompted naturally enough when the announced daily service wasn't functioning on what would have been the second day.

When the Victoria didn't show up at the city for which it is named, people began to wonder. What they didn't realize was that the craft, after its maiden voyage, was in a Seattle shipyard.

But, said the optimistic president of Northwest Hydrofoil Lines, the trouble is superficial and the future promises to be rosy.

The future of which Mr.

Salute
Today

More than 600 Greater Victoria school children, complete with an all-school Grade 6 massed choir and Lansdowne Junior High school band, will salute Queen Victoria at the Legislative Buildings this morning.

Niedermair speaks could arrive as early as Saturday, and Sunday at the latest.

He hopes so, anyway.

DURING CHECK

It's this way: "We discovered when it was being checked at Victoria that it had a hydraulic leak on the outdrive, of all places," Mr. Niedermair said. The outdrive is an external propeller and rudder assembly.

"We managed to isolate the system and we didn't lose any fluid on the way back to Seattle."

Despite this handicap, which Mr. Niedermair described as "a very minor thing," the Victoria made it home in two hours and 10 minutes. That's just 10 minutes longer than the time estimated for the trip under the best of conditions.

Monopoly of Civic Squares
Earns Mayor's Criticism

The regular use of civic squares for Friday night gathering was "just too much" and would not be tolerated, Mayor Hugh Stephen said Thursday.

What must be maintained in Centennial Square and Bastion Square was a "balance," the mayor added, so that all age levels and people of all interests would get the full use of facilities built for their benefit.

The mayor gave an example of a "balanced" situation.

He was looking at Centennial Square recently, he said, and in one section there were a dozen or more hippies. In other areas there were groups of old people, Chinese, tourists and men obviously drying out after a night on the town — all enjoying the square and none monopolizing it.

In a statement of policy, Mayor Stephen said the squares were "intended to encourage people to go there casually, sit and relax, wander around, talk or read and generally to be a refuge and resting place from the noisy bustle of urban life."

When, by invitation or design, large groups moved in for organized activity, the atmosphere was destroyed.

The statement pointed out that both squares now came under the provisions of the city parks bylaw, which prohibited "processions' marches, drills, performances, ceremonies, concerts, gatherings or meetings" without permission of city council.

"However, it is the desire of council that, from time to time and at appropriate hours, Centennial and Bastion Squares should be made available to organized activity, so long as it is legal and orderly."

"It should be noted that council will not be prepared to extend permission to any one group to meet at regular intervals, as this would confer a partial monopoly to the exclusion of equal rights of other citizens," the report said.

PERSONAL MENTION

By Dorothy Wrotnowski

The tenth anniversary party of the Victoria Power Squadron was celebrated in a big way at the Empress Hotel on Wednesday evening. It was the biggest ever graduating class—the biggest dinner—more than 300—and a real bumper year.

But when you have personalities like Vic Griffin and Courtney Haddock behind a venture what else can you expect? Vic Griffin was squadron Commander last year and Courtney was the original Squadron Commander in 1958 and last year acted as liaison officer.

Regardless of their actual positions both these men are always out in front in any undertaking. At the dinner Courtney Haddock was up before the mike joking and trying to get everyone to sing along with him and Reg Stone at the organ.

Everything was off to a happy start that lasted through to the finish. Lots of laughter and a relaxed, gay atmosphere.

The Galliano contingent, Fred and Mary Robson, Dudley and Lorna Tweedale, Glen and Margaret Stahl and Bud and Nan Day took quite a ribbing when they hogged two out of the three door prizes.

Margaret Stahl won herself a whole case of Valvoline and to Bud Day went a first aid kit. Jack Robbles went home with a life jacket as the third winner.

Evidently the Galliano group, 12 altogether, had quite a time with their course as they had no qualified instructor to start. Bud Day who was official instructor said it wasn't a case of the blind leading the blind, it was the uneducated leading the naive.

They were all very grateful to Jack Robbles, a former commander, and others who went over to the island to help them out. Anyway they passed the course.

From Nanaimo were the Alvin Brown and Dick and Mary Isaacs and George and Patricia Pease and wife Dorothy were there from Cowichan.

Mel Brundridge could be called the main guy of the evening. He is a charter member of the group and has now completed the highest course of navigation after sailing the full slate. Mel will keep his membership as an officer of the Squadron.

The Brundridges keep their 30 foot cruiser Sea Biscuit out at Westport Marine when they are not out in it.

Harold McWilliams—he is director of Provincial Marine Parks was guest speaker and he told his interested audience just how they could enjoy the park facilities. His wife, Gloria, was with him at the head table.

George Masters, Squadron Lieutenant, Lee Hale, also a Lieutenant and Diana Kemmer, whose husband, Rex, is secretary, stood up to take a bow for the grand arrangements they had made for the evening's entertainment.

Dr. and Mrs. Don North were sitting opposite to me. I take it Don North is a keen sailor while wife, Beanie, a former Londoner, will have no part of it. Beanie helps out on land but that is as far as she'll go.

Don North said he thought the cruises being organized by the Power Squadron were such a good idea. They are planning two week organized sailing cruises complete with sail master all through the summer.

There will be cruises up-island, around the Gulf Islands, picnics, diving, water skiing, hikes and just about everything to interest holiday makers on these trips.

As Don said, so many times people who don't know anything about sailing, come here on holiday, charter a boat and then sit it out in some safe harbor, scared to go anywhere.

Lorna Tweedale was telling me how much she and husband loved living on Galliano. They went there two years ago from Vancouver.

They take many trips on their 21-foot cruiser, Lorna May during the summer months and often call in to see the Arthur Milners on Salt Spring.

To watch those hummingbirds feed, no doubt. The Milners have little tube feeding stations across the deck which runs across the entire front of their house. The area literally swarms with the little jewel bright birds as they sip the pink colored sweetened water. A fascinating sight.

Edwin Fullerton, lighthouse keeper at Trial Island, and wife Emerald, only everyone calls her Rocky, took several courses between them.

Edwin graduated in engine maintenance and Rocky in seamanship and advanced piloting. They'll be prepared, just in case.

Robert Horner was spokesman for the piloting class and his wife Gloria was also a graduate.

Was talking to Bruce and Gladys Passmore. Their daughter, Fawn, and Terri takes who set off for Europe last month now have their car and are enroute to Copenhagen.

Other Squadron officers assisting with the ceremonies were Fred Robleson, Oliver Summers, Ronald Hackney and John Houston.

The Capital City Auxiliary are hoping that Mrs. W. A. C. Bennett will be here to open the garden party they are holding at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Waldo Skilling, 1721 Rockland Avenue next Wednesday, the 22nd.

This Sports Writer Looks Really Chic

By JIM MURRAY

LOS ANGELES (LAT) — When you think of a sports writer, what kind of an image comes to your mind? A guy in rumpled clothes with a cigar stub in one corner of his mouth and a bottle with a cork sticking out of his back pocket? A guy with ink stains on his fingers, tobacco stains on his teeth, and a guy who will get crankily into the argument over whether Man O'War could beat Citation, or Dempsey could beat Louis, but will draw a blank if you ask him who will win the Indiana primary—although he might take a wild guess that it will be Notre Dame.

What would you say if I told you I met a sports writer the other day who was wearing earrings and high heels? And carrying a purse? In fact, who looked downright chic?

What sports does HE cover, you ask? Well, anyone who thinks Ingrid Wendt is a HE has to have his glasses checked—or his hormones. Ingrid wiles away the time between sports writing assignments on ice skating—in the ice Capades. She makes a good deal more money on ice than she does on deadline, but you know how we sports writers are—we'd rather be in a press box than a bank any old day. And a good thing, too.

If you ask Ingrid what she thought of Carl Yastrzemski, she'd say "Gesundheit!" If you ask her who Tinker-to-Evers-to-Chance were, she'd guess a law firm. If you told her to go cover the Bears, she'd look for a zoo.

Ingrid's "beat" is the little world of ice-skating, that tightly knit fraternity (and sorority) of figure eights, double axels, double lutzers, lifts set to Beethoven, Mendelssohn, and the Tales from the Vienna Woods.

Whenever Ingrid is in her native Vienna, she covers ice skating for the local Zeitung. Her prose does not run to the luridly favored by us benighted writers of the purple prose. She does not make figure skating sound like the battle for Berlin.

Covering skating is like covering a cotillion as a sporting event, or keeping standbys in the emperor's waltz. Over here, we don't cover any skating event that you don't get a split leg from, or start to fight with sticks in the middle of. But what interested me about Ingrid, apart from the fact she's got the biggest eyes and eyelashes (with the most mascara around them) of any sports writer I've ever known, is that her ice Capades job gives her an opportunity to make more road trips than most. It seemed to me to afford the most opportunity for the grand old American sport of city-knocking. I poked her gently in the ribs:

"What'd you think of New York, eh? All those grimy streets, eh? Take your luger along in the subway, did you?" Ingrid looked wide-eyed and innocent. "I was in Central Park at twilight as all those lights came on in the skyscrapers. Magnificent!"

I was annoyed. "Central Park at twilight? What about all that screaming in the bushes? What'd you have, an armed tank? A regiment of national guard? What about Chicago? Didn't you just HATE Chicago?"

"In Chicago, I had measles. I think of Chicago as having spots all over it." I started to perk up. "But," she sighed, "such lovely museums. Have you ever seen the museums of Chicago?"

Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: Please print this letter for "Dutiful Daughter Eve." I hope it is not too late for her.

I was also a dutiful daughter. My dear mother never drew a healthy breath that I can remember. When her two sons left the nest, her "frail" health kept Father chained to her side. When Father died, the duty fell on me.

No man I dated was "suitable." Tom did not come from a background worthy of mine. Dick was after my money. Harry was too handsome and would be a constant worry to me.

So I had a series of lovers — four to be exact. One lasted for several years. I don't recommend this non-solution. One day I realized I was 50 years old and Mother still had her hooks into me. She had to have the last word on my clothes, my hairstyle, my friends. I finally asked myself, "When am I going to be allowed to do as I please?" The answer was NEVER.

Mother is now 93. I am 60. She is in a nursing home and I visit her every day. While this story is tragic, it is also hilarious because the joke is on me. I told myself through the years it was all my mother's fault that I was unable to marry, but I realize now my mother was not entirely to blame. I know now I must have been a little wacky to have allowed her to do this to me.—EVE NUMBER II

Dear Eve: Your insight and evaluation are superb. It's too bad you learned so late. Thanks for sharing.

Start to Sneeze

Dear Ann Landers: Whenever my sister-in-law comes over I start to sneeze my head off, my eyes itch and my nose begins to run. This started about six months ago right after she borrowed my satin evening coat and someone burned a cigarette hole in it. (Not her fault, of course, but not mine either.)

I don't think I am harboring any deep-seated feelings of hatred for Mildred, but I admit I have never felt the same toward her since. My husband suggested to me that I am allergic to Mildred. Is it possible? Last night we had dinner together and the itching and sneezing were worse than ever; plus I broke out with hives. Please explain this if you can.—SPOOKED

Dear Spooked: There is a chance that you are allergic to Mildred in the sense that your emotional reaction to her presence is producing the annoying physical symptoms. There is also the chance that you are allergic to her perfume or hairspray. Tests can determine the latter. See a physician who specializes in allergies. And good luck to you.

Little Kid

Dear Ann Landers: I think you are all wet about telephone etiquette. According to you a person should always identify himself when he makes a telephone call. I say it is nobody's business who is calling except the person to whom the call is placed. Especially do I hate it when some little kid says, "Who is this?"—forgetting the "please."

Another beef: I am an executive and I frequently call other business executives and they call me. Some of the big shots are too important to place their own calls. They have their secretaries do it. When I get a call from a secretary who says, "Mr. Whatchamacallit wants to speak to you," I always say, "Well, tell him to call me then" and I hang up.

You are getting dumber by the day, Ann Landers. Why don't you retire?—BACK BAY COLONEL

Timber Firm Paid Trip

EDMONTON (CP) — E. W. Hinman told a judicial inquiry Thursday a timber corporation paid his expenses to a Chicago meeting at which the company was seeking financial support.

The former provincial treasurer said he, as a government member, was interested in seeing the company, Alberta West Forest Products Corp. Ltd., obtain backing to build a pulp mill in the province.

FOLLY OUTLINED

Hinman said he and the late Norman Wilmore, then minister of lands and forests, went to Chicago for a meeting between company officials and prospective backers. As provincial treasurer, he had described "the soundness of Alberta's financial position" and Wilmore had outlined forest policies and regulations.

Under questioning, he added: "I said I didn't think the government ought to pay the expenses of a trip like that. They (company officials) more or less requested us to go."

NOTHING DEVELOPED

Hinman said nothing developed from the meeting.

(Alberta West obtained a timber lease in northwestern Alberta and about 1960 began to seek backing to build a pulp mill near Whitecourt. The lease was sold to McMillan Bloedel Ltd. and the company liquidated in 1965.)

Hinman testified he had nothing to do with obtaining any lease and received no benefit either directly or indirectly from the company.

NDF ALLEGATIONS

The inquiry is investigating allegations made in the 1967 legislature by Garth Turcott, then New Democratic Party member for Picher Creek-Crowstons, that Hinman and A. J. Hooks, now welfare minister, used or attempted to use their public office for personal gain.

Hinman said he held no shares in the company and had no part in selling any, but he did tell at least two people Alberta West "looked like a good thing."

Population Rising

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's population at April 1 was an estimated 20,700,000, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics said Thursday.

The figure represents an increase of 365,000 persons or 1.8 per cent over the same month a year earlier.

The biggest numerical increase was the additional 188,000 residents in Ontario. Its population now is an estimated 7,283,000.

The largest percentage increase of 3.3 per cent or 64,000 persons brought British Columbia's population to more than 2,000,000.

Quebec gained 68,000 residents to bring its population to 5,823,000.

Alberta gained 37,000 for a population of 1,520,000 and Manitoba gained 8,000 for a population of 989,000.

The Northwest Territories gained 1,000 for a new total of 30,000. The Yukon's population remained at 15,000.

Stanfield Continues Assault on Trudeau

HALIFAX (CP)—Conservative Leader Stanfield charged Thursday night that Prime Minister Trudeau will settle nothing and may cause great damage by injecting the Quebec-Ottawa feud into the federal election.

Stanfield accused Trudeau of conjuring up visions, speaking nonsense and assuming a ridiculous position.

The Conservative leader staked a claim to his personal ability to deal with problems of federal-provincial relations and national unity.

And he suggested that Trudeau, by stepping up his fight with Quebec Premier Johnson, is fast destroying his own hopes of success in presiding over any future federal-provincial negotiations.

Stanfield spoke at the convention nominating him as Conservative candidate in the June 25 election in the riding of Halifax.

It was his second major statement in as many nights on the controversy surrounding Quebec's claim to make contacts and assume a limited independent role abroad.

Housing Woes 'Responsibility Of Ottawa'

VANCOUVER (CP)—New Democratic Leader T. C. Douglas Thursday visited three west-end homes to hear about housing problems and said Ottawa must assume "the major responsibility" for housing.

Residents at all three homes complained of problems in finding housing for families with young children and Mr. Douglas said this situation was "incomprehensible" and "ridiculous."

"I think of all the hogwash I've heard from politicians about motherhood and the citizens of tomorrow. When you hear one of these citizens of tomorrow you hear 'get out of the apartment'."

He reiterated NDP calls for a national housing agency and a national investment board. The latter would channel major private investment "according to social priorities."

Housing would be the second priority after industrial expansion, he told reporters. Later, he told 85 persons in NDP headquarters in the Vancouver Centre riding that Ottawa must have more powers for housing.

He visited:

- Decaying alley home, occupied by a 32-year-old woman whose maximum income from welfare and housekeeping work is $225 a month; with two children, deserted by her husband, she pays $75 a month rent.
- A young married couple who have "no problem" with the $147 rent on a 12th floor suite in an English Bay area block but "will have to get out" when their 10-month-old son is two years old.
- The young family of a wire cloth weaver who have a "noisy" $110-a-month apartment in an older block, found after they were ordered out of another building when the wife became pregnant.

Each complained that in the current mortgage market, they can't afford to buy homes. Mr. Douglas launched an attack on mortgage rates, "real estate moguls and people who speculate in land."

ROOF NECESSARY

Said Mr. Douglas: "Housing and drugs you can't do without. If steak prices get too tough, you can say you'll eat fish or switch to lamb. But a roof over your head you have to have."

Mr. Douglas is to be in or close to his home Burnaby-Seymour constituency for the remainder of the week. He is to go to Toronto Monday and start campaigning in Northern Ontario Tuesday.

Briefs:

Debate Debate Won't Abate

This also happened in the campaign:

- Liberal and Conservative representatives spent all day with CTV network brass, trying to iron out difficulties surrounding a proposed debate between the two major party leaders. However, the NDP issued a statement which said that any such debate that excluded leader T. C. Douglas "will not establish a true confrontation of ideas among the political leaders of Canada."
- From Prince Albert, former Tory chief John Diefenbaker said "the cancer of inflation" is tearing out the vitals of the economic life of Canada. He said that Prime Minister Trudeau was afraid to face economic problems so called the election.
- The Grits have chartered a DC-9 jet from Air Canada to whisk the prime minister around the nation in the next few weeks. He opens the Montreal fair Man and His World today and resumes campaigning Saturday in Toronto.
- Philip Givens, former Toronto mayor, has been nominated as Liberal candidate for New York West. He was mayor from 1963 to 1966.
- Health Minister Allan Rock said in Sydney, N.S., that a vote for a Stanfield government will lead to "creeping separatism."

Socreds Are Dead

WINNIPEG (CP)—The former leader of the national Social Credit party said Wednesday the party is dead as a national political force.

Robert Thompson who has been embraced by the Progressive Conservatives to contest Red Deer constituency, said the Social Credit party "doesn't even have an office."

The inactivity of the party, he said, forced him to join the Conservatives.

"I have always been a conservative with a small c. Now I'm a Progressive Conservative."

Thompson predicted that only three Social Credit members will sit in the Commons following the election, all from B.C. They will be returned on their own merits, not because of party affiliation.

He said most Social Credit backers will turn conservative on a national basis.

Social Credit to Run In Esquimalt-Saanich

Two provincial cabinet ministers will speak at the Esquimalt-Saanich Social Credit nominating convention next week.

They are Works Minister W. N. Chant and Industry Minister Waldo Skilling, who will be on the platform along with MLAs Herbert Bruch and John Tisdale.

"The Esquimalt-Saanich Social

Credit executive will have a candidate to contest the seat in the June 25 general election," said an announcement Thursday.

The Esquimalt-Saanich nominating meeting starts at 8 p.m. Tuesday in Mount View senior high school. Registration starts at 7:30 p.m.

3,000 More Voters In Victoria Area

Preliminary counts in the two ridings show 105,489 people in the Greater Victoria area are eligible to vote in the June 25 general election.

This compares with 102,424 who were eligible to cast votes in Victoria and Esquimalt-Saanich ridings in the 1965 election.

Mrs. E. F. Lea, returning officer for Esquimalt-Saanich, reported Wednesday she had counted 52,292 on the lists drawn up after last week's enumeration.

In 1965, there were 48,208. The Esquimalt-Saanich count contrasts with that of Victoria, which has declined in comparison with the figures of 24 years ago.

Victoria's list of eligible voters this year runs to 53,197 names, compared with the 54,215 who were entered in 1965.

In addition to the population increase on the Saanich Peninsula, the sharp rise in the Esquimalt-Saanich figure has been attributed to the assignment to that riding of the municipality of Esquimalt.

That territory was previously within the Victoria riding boundaries.

The 52,292 names were more than Mrs. Lea expected.

"Our enumerators had a very difficult job and they did it very well," she explained. "Our riding is full of dead-end streets and country roads that often make it hard to canvass everyone."

People who find that they have been omitted from the voters' lists may appear at a court of revision June 6, 7 and 8.

or have the correction made by a revising officer, who will apply on their behalf.

The revising officer will be dispatched by the returning officer.

Courts will be held at the Eagles Hall, 755 View, for voters in Victoria riding and at the five advance polling stations in Esquimalt-Saanich riding.

In Esquimalt-Saanich, those courts will be at Knights of Pythias Hall at Sidney, St. Luke's church hall on Cedar Hill Cross Road, St. Martin's-in-the-Field hall on Obed, Esquimalt United Church hall on Admirals Road and St. Matthew's hall at Goldstream.

B.C. Telephone Co. has asked the campaign managers of candidates in the June 25 general election to keep their posters off telephone poles.

H. N. Maclean, the company's safety administrator, said Thursday the request was being made to enable B.C. Telephone to comply with Workmen's Compensation Board safety regulations.

"Election posters on poles endanger workmen," said the letter to campaign managers. "A resulting fall could cause serious injury or death."

Poor Dramatize U.S. Need Says Humphrey

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The 500 citizens of "Resurrection City, U.S.A." put down their hammers and saws to welcome Vice-President Hubert H. Humphrey and the mayors of Atlanta, New York and Washington to their campsites Thursday.

The number of demonstrators in the city was swelled to above 800 by the arrival of 320 more in a caravan from Chicago. By the weekend, the schedule called for up to 2,900 to be in town.

IN CHURCH

Only 150 plywood and plastic A-frame lean-tos were finished at the marchers' campsites as the newcomers were housed in a Washington church.

A heavy rain was falling when the high-level visitors arrived at the 15-acre encampment. Humphrey and mayors John Lindsay of New York, Ivan Allen Jr. of Atlanta and Walter Washington of the District of Columbia were encircled by camp marshals with arms locked to prevent them from being engulfed by the crowd of poor who pushed and shoved to get near them.

"You are dramatizing to the American people bare the needs of our fellow American," Humphrey told the poor. "This can be a very educational experience."

Rescued Miners In Arms of Law

TAIPEI (AP)—Fourteen miners trapped in a jade mine in eastern Formosa since Monday were rescued Thursday and charged with trespassing.

The men were so weakened by their 52 hours of entombment they could barely stand up. An earlier report that 23 men were trapped by the cave-in was incorrect.

Police said none of the rescued men was employed by the owner of the mine. The mine had been sealed by a court order following litigation.

'Biological Error'

Child Winning Heart Battle

MAGRATH, Alta. (CP)—Three-year-old Joann Tomlinson, of this farming community 20 miles south of Lethbridge, is winning a victory over a biological error.

Joann was born in August, 1964, with the two main arteries in her heart transposed. The aorta, which in a normal heart sends oxygenated blood from the lower left chamber of the heart out through the body, was connected to the lower right chamber.

And the girl's pulmonary artery which sends blood from the lower right chamber to the lungs for oxygenation, was connected to the lower left chamber.

She was able to live because two other mistakes by nature kept an adequate blood circulation flowing. A small hole in the wall between the two upper chambers allowed a partially correcting flow of blood between the auricles. Also a normal connection between the aorta and the pulmonary artery in a fetus failed to close after Joann's birth.

Two operations in Vancouver were needed to make her heart completely functional, although not normal.

The first, eight months after she was born, was to enlarge the hole in her heart. In the second, February, 1967, surgeons took a section of the membrane that holds the heart and sewed it into the heart.

After the operations the heart worked, but outside the manner in which a normal heart functions. The condition is medically known as a "transposition of the great vessels."

Joann's mother, Mrs. Norris Tomlinson, said Thursday, "Now she is getting the bumps and falls that most kids get when they are just starting to walk. Now we can't make her sit down. She's always getting into the stuff," she said.

Three Canadian Men Overdue in Andes

LIMA, Peru (UPI)—Three Canadian mountain climbers unreported since they started to scale 22,000-foot Mount Huascaran last Saturday are still missing, authorities said Thursday.

Huascaran is located in the white range of the Andes north of Lima, in the state of Ancash.

Climbers from the valley towns of Huaraz and Yungay are searching for the missing mountaineers. However, they said they were not overly worried about the safety of the Canadians since they were scaling the peak by routes not normally used, and could be delayed in returning as a result.

The Canadian climbers were identified by the Canadian embassy Wednesday as Peter Fuhrmann, 34, Hans Schermer, 29, and Hugh Conditine, 40, all of Calgary and Banff, Alta.

Top Female To Compete

Canada's top female gymnast and member of the Pan American Games team, Sandra Hartley, of North Vancouver, will be competing in the B.C. Gymnastics Championships on May 17 and 18 at the Victoria YM-YWCA gymnasium.

Bill Mackie of Vancouver, another member of the Pan American games team, and Joyce Tanac of Seattle, the second-best American female gymnast, will be also competing.

Victoria gymnasts in the competitions will include Marg Worsley, Darryl Howe, Rick Johnson, Don Williams, Mike Blades, and Lonnie Mitchell.

The championships start at 7 p.m. Friday and 1 p.m. Saturday. There will be a special performance by the winning gymnasts at 7:30 p.m. Saturday.

Newfoundland Shaken

Smallwood Retracts Charges

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—The three-day drama of the Newfoundland cabinet revolt took another startling twist Thursday when Premier Joseph Smallwood publicly withdrew charges of impropriety he levelled two days earlier at a young ex-cabinet minister.

The premier also withdrew in the legislature charges that the minister's family aided an alleged misuse of public office. He apologized for any possible character damage.

This was the latest in a series of developments that have shaken the government and rocked the legislature daily since John Crosbie, who was health minister, and Clyde Wells, minister-without-portfolio, crossed the floor Tuesday to sit as an independent Liberal.

Both differed with fundamental economic development policies pursued personally by the premier. Mr. Crosbie also charged there was only "one master" in Mr. Smallwood's cabinet.

Thursday, Mr. Crosbie rose in the morning session to read a seven-page prepared statement which reiterated his earlier point-by-point denials of Mr. Smallwood's charges.

These included allegations that he tried to extract construction contracts for an apartment building here and a proposed oil refinery for his family's companies.

When he finished, the premier asked suspension of house rules so he could comment on Mr. Crosbie's personal statement. Then he read a 227-word statement of retraction, saying the dispute was one of policy and "perhaps, differences in personality and temperament."

Mr. Crosbie appeared slightly stunned as he stood up to say: "For a man in public office to take a position and then reverse it, it has to take a lot of doing. I consider what he the premier said to be very large-minded. This would conclude any matter of dispute between us in connection with the premier's letter of May 13," demanding Mr. Crosbie's resignation and levelling the charges.

"I would sincerely like to thank him for the statement he has made here today," Mr. Crosbie said.

The premier's statement said he had considered Mr. Crosbie's denials and similar ones from his family. "I am satisfied that the statements of fact made by him and them should be accepted."

The former health minister's uncle, Bill Crosbie, challenged the premier Wednesday to prove his charges in court.

Mr. Smallwood had said a member of the Crosbie family tried to get contracts for an oil refinery at Come-by-Chance, Nfld., on the threat that John Crosbie would resign and bring down the government.

Refund Cheques All Out Soon

OTTAWA (CP) — Most Canadians getting income tax refunds will have them by May 31, a revenue department spokesman said Thursday.

A total of 4,243,600 returns already have been dealt with; 3,686,769 still are to be handled. Processing now is well ahead of last year following a relatively slow start resulting from administrative problems after a new computer system was set up.

At this time last year, 4,100,500 returns had been processed. The deadline for filing returns was April 30 but some are still coming in, the spokesman said.

Poll Says Tories Lead U.K.

LONDON (Reuters) — Britain's opposition Conservatives would be swept to power—with double the votes of the governing Labour party—in an election now, a Gallup Poll said Thursday.

The Conservative lead, over Prime Minister Wilson's government jumped to 28 per cent last month—the biggest advantage gained by any party since Gallup started recording 31 years ago.

Some 56 per cent of voters said they supported the Tories, whereas the Labour party trailed behind with only 28 per cent.

As leader, Wilson has slumped to an all-time low—for the first time voters have given him a rating below Opposition Leader Edward Heath.

Perjury Guilt Ruled

VANCOUVER (CP)—A private detective was found guilty Thursday of perjury while giving evidence at a Supreme Court divorce hearing.

Magistrate David Moffett said the lie was "perhaps fathered by the divorce laws at the time" and it was with "a heavy heart" that he convicted Henry Van Neer, 30, of perjury.

The perjury was committed, the magistrate said, when Van Neer told a Supreme Court judge he found Jack Michalik in bed with Elizabeth Avromovic. Both denied the detective was in the house.

Van Neer was testifying at the divorce hearing last Aug. 6 of Helen Michalik versus Jack Michalik and Elizabeth Avromovic. "His lie was a professional one. He adjusted facts to suit his purpose," said the magistrate as he remanded Van Neer to June 6 for sentence.

School Engineers

Vancouver Strike Ends

VANCOUVER (CP) — Both sides in a strike of janitors and "engineer-custodians" employed by the Vancouver school board Thursday agreed to a settlement.

Doug Eastwood, president of the Vancouver local of the International Union of Operating Engineers, said a majority of the janitors voted to accept a 6.72 per cent wage increase.

The Vancouver school board met later and also accepted the settlement.

The janitors struck May 10 seeking higher wages. Some students refused to cross picket lines set up at 22 high schools.

Furnaces were allowed to go out in some schools and in some uncollected garbage and litter piled up. Some school washrooms were also closed by the strike.

Employees agreed to conciliation board recommendation of wage increases of $21 monthly from Jan. 1 and a further $22 monthly from July 1. Previous wages ranged from $409 to $682 monthly.

Britain Scores With First Lung Transplant

EDINBURGH, Scotland (UPI)—A 15-year-old boy has received a lung from an 18-year-old girl in Britain's first and the world's fourth lung transplant operation. It was learned Thursday night. He was reported in satisfactory condition.

The lung was transplanted Wednesday at Edinburgh's royal infirmary, informed medical sources said.

The sources later identified the boy as Alex Smith, flown here from his home in the Outer Hebrides off northern Scotland. The girl remained unidentified.

Two Doctors:

Wine Fine But Snuff Often Rough

VANCOUVER (CP)—Wine may be of more use medically than is generally recognized, a conference of eye, ear, nose and throat specialists was told Wednesday.

Dr. Kenneth Cambo of Vancouver said wine has medicinal use for certain ear and throat ailments. He spoke at a scientific session of the Pacific Coast otolaryngological society.

In the Middle Ages, he said, physicians were convinced wine would prevent heart disease, kill earache, soothe a wound and even cure a fear of heights.

WINE USE

He lamented that modern physicians know little about the use of wine in medicine, though there was evidence it contains some unknown anti-bacterial agents.

He said he had prescribed wine after ear surgery with a successful result, although these were difficult to assess scientifically.

He added he prescribes wine with meals for many patients, and thinks there is a lot to be said for wine at the family dinner table for reducing tensions and heightening sociability.

Another speaker, Dr. Donald Harrison, a British ear, nose and throat specialist, warned of the dangers of taking snuff. There is sufficient evidence to show the habit can lead to cancer of the nose or mouth, he said.

Dr. Harrison noted snuff was still popular in south Tennessee and the Carolinas and in the tailors and bookbinders' trades in London England.

Marijuana View: 'Unacceptable'

VANCOUVER (CP)—A conference of provincial and federal government officials to discuss problems of drug dependency has decided unanimously the use of marijuana is "completely unacceptable."

The closed-door conference, held at the University of British Columbia, was attended by 33 representatives of the federal government, the government of Alberta and B.C. and agencies located in Ontario and B.C.

In a joint statement Thursday delegates said effective controls must be maintained on a wide variety of narcotics and other drugs.

They also said a better distribution of factual information on the dangers of drug dependency must be circulated at provincial and national levels.

Further meetings to co-ordinate efforts and improve legal, educational and treatment procedures will be held, the statement said.

Dawn Disaster

One after another, rooms of 23-storey London apartment collapsed like pack of cards in dawn disaster. Three died, three are unaccounted for and 12 were injured. Building was completed two months ago, first tenants moved in just a few weeks ago.—(AP)

Apartment Explodes

LONDON (UPI)—A corner of a new, 23-storey skyscraper apartment in London's dock area collapsed like a pack of cards Thursday when a thunderous explosion tore the side out of the building.

Three people, two men and a woman, were killed and three were unaccounted for in what rescue workers said could have been a major disaster. Twelve persons among the 200 who lived in the public housing project were injured, officials said.

LEAKING GAS

The dawn explosion apparently came from a leaking gas main on the 19th floor of the 300-ft high Roman Point apartments. The blast seemed "as though a rocket ripped through the south east side of the building," said one eyewitness.

Living rooms and bedrooms in each of the five apartments on the top floor fell in. Then the living rooms in other apartments, from the top to ground level, crumpled and fell.

'A MIRACLE'

"It was a miracle no more people were killed," said one rescue official. "Luckily the bedrooms were on the other side of the block otherwise there would have been many more deaths."

Housepainter William Brown told officials he saw a "red flash, followed by a cloud of black smoke and fire." Then the wing crumbled to the ground, floor by floor, shortly before 6 a.m. while most of the residents were still in bed.

SLID 15 FLOORS

One man, living on the 15th floor, slid to street level on a slab of concrete as hundreds of tons of rubble collapsed beneath him. He was found dazed.

"It was the most miraculous escape I've ever heard of," said a fireman. "He slid all the way down on this concrete slab as though he were riding a magic carpet."

A heavy sleeper on the 19th floor did not know what had happened.

"We smashed his door down and he came out in his pajamas

Leaking Gas Cause?

and said, "What the hell is going on?" rescuers said. Hundreds of police, firemen and ambulance aides were ordered to pull out of the area because of fears that more walls in the two-month-old, prefabricated concrete building would collapse.

Home Secretary James Callaghan ordered an immediate full-scale inquiry — possibly in the form of a public tribunal — to determine the cause of the crash.

WALL DISAPPEARED

The 80 displaced families were housed in school and church halls. James Chambers, and his wife, both 62, were asleep when the explosion rocked their seventh-floor apartment.

"With a terrible ripping sound the wall fell away and we found ourselves staring out over London," Chambers said. "There was an avalanche of masonry and furniture. I heard dreadful screams from people falling past our room."

Stabbing Father Convicted, Free

PARIS (AP)—A jury gave a suspended sentence to a father who stabbed his 13-year-old mentally retarded daughter to death and pleaded that it was a mercy killing. The girl had a mental age of six months.

Research

'Canada Trails Badly'

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Canada trails Britain and Australia by 15 years in research into family health care, a London, Ont., doctor said Wednesday.

Dr. James Collyer, chairman of the committee of research of the College of Family Physicians, told a conference on family medicine that although government money is available to support such research, his committee had a hard time persuading doctors in general practice to undertake it.

TRIP PLANNED

He plans to leave for Great Britain shortly "to pick brains" and "save us years" in family health research. The United States was a poor source of such information "because they are behind us."

Dr. Collyer said the college of Family Physicians set up the research committee to help doctors define research program, finance pilot projects and report on their findings.

But he said no family doctor has asked to use a computer made available for research projects.

French Priest's Fever Lowers To 101, Houston Patient Well

By UPI

A high fever developed by France's only surviving heart transplant patient dropped from 104 to 101 degrees Thursday and doctors at Paris' Broussais Hospital said their patient had "improved slightly."

Heart transplant patients in London and Houston both ended their second week with new heart beating in their chests, and as yet there were no signs of rejection to the alien organ in either of the patients.

Rev. Jean-Marie Boulogne, 57, a Roman Catholic priest from southern Marseilles and the world's newest heart transplant patient, rebounded from a condition doctors had said caused "serious concern."

The priest's temperature rose to 104 early Thursday, but had dropped to 101 by Thursday night.

"Examinations carried out during last night and this morning have not permitted us to discover the cause of his fever," a hospital communique said. "On the other hand, most of his body functions remained perfect."

Everett Thomas, 47, of Phoenix, Ariz., and Frederick West, 45, of London, both advanced another day toward full recovery two weeks after their heart transplant operations.

Doctors generally agree that the period between the first and third weeks following surgery is the time the body is most likely to reject the new heart.

Doctors at St. Luke's Hospital in Houston said Thomas has shown no signs of rejection. A hospital spokesman said Thomas had "spent another good night. He has a good attitude and a good appetite."

Kennedy Unruffled by Hairy Query

Names in the News

LOS ANGELES — Tense-haired Sen. Robert Kennedy was addressing a crowd when someone shouted, "Why don't you get your hair cut?"

Kennedy stopped and said: "Here I am right at the peak of my speech and you say 'get your hair cut.' I've got my hair cut. I got it cut for Indiana. I got it cut for Nebraska. I got it cut for here, so quit telling me to get my hair cut." Someone else in the crowd called out "What about the population explosion?" Kennedy, whose wife Ethel is expecting her 11th child, said: "All of us should do our best to deal with it."

SANTA MONICA, Calif. — Canadian-born actor Glenn Ford was sued for divorce by actress

Kathryn Hays on grounds of extreme cruelty. They married March 27, 1966, in Los Angeles and separated April 8.

LUDLOW, Pa. — Volunteer firemen responded quickly when the engine of Leroy Harlan's milk truck caught on fire. They needn't have bothered. Harlan put the fire out with six quarts of milk.

COPENHAGEN, Denmark — A Czech-born U.S. airline pilot making the first transatlantic trip in a powered glider was greeted with a fine when he landed at an airport in southern Greenland. Capt. Miro Slovák, 38, a well-known Seattle hydroplane racing champion, left Scotland to fly to the U.S. in a glider powered by a tiny engine. He crossed the Greenland ice-cap but neglected to ask the airport at Sønderborg for permission to land and was fined $100 on the spot.

SACRAMENTO, Calif. — Assemblyman Joe Goncalves and Lee J. Ryan challenged each other to a milking duel after each had said how he had to milk cows as a boy. Goncalves was a runaway winner, even though his cow knocked over the bucket halfway through.

SAN JUAN — A rivet fired from a telephone installer's rivet gun pierced a wall at a watch factory in this Puerto Rican city and struck factory worker Carmes Charries in the head. She died en route to hospital.

NEW YORK — Elizabeth Taylor, already owning more than $1,000,000 in gems according to husband Richard Burton, has added a 33-carat bauble to the collection, at the same time setting a world record for auction-bidding on diamonds. Al Yagler of the Manhattan jewelry firm of Frank Padak made the $305,000 bid for the actress, wearing the so-called Krupp Diamond and shattering bid records at the Parke-Bernet galleries.

WASHINGTON — Former president Dwight Eisenhower, recovering from a recent mild heart attack, has progressed to the point of "sitting up in a chair for 2 1/2 hours daily, and is tolerating this well," Walter Reed army hospital reports.

OTTAWA — The body of journalist Blair Fraser was cremated after a 20-minute funeral service at Dominick-Chalmers United Church.

FRANKFURT, West Germany — Departing U.S. Ambassador George McGee was awarded the Edward W. Zinn medal by the American Chamber of Commerce in Germany for promoting German-American trade.

BONN, West Germany — Foreign Secretary Michael Stewart of Britain will arrive May 24 to confer with Foreign Minister Willy Brandt reportedly on Britain's attempts to gain Common Market membership.

GANDER, Nfld. — Viscount Montgomery of Alameda arrived here aboard an Air Canada overseas jet to begin a two-week Newfoundland visit.

Scouts Enter Float

The Tsartlip District Boy Scout Association will be entering a float in the Victoria Day parade this year for the first time.

"The float will demonstrate some Cub, Scout and Rover activities," said Jack Anderson, district scoutmaster, "and we hope it will encourage more young men to join the movement." Scouts and leaders will build the 40-foot-long float on Saturday at the Cordova Bay Community Hall.

Unemployed Rate Rises

More Working, Out of Work

OTTAWA (CP) — Above-normal increases in both farms and non-farm employment lopped 52,000 persons from the ranks of the unemployed between March and April.

But the estimated 436,000 persons seeking jobs still was 71,000 above the same month in 1967 due to an increase in the labor force, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics and the manpower department said Thursday in their monthly survey of Canada's employment picture.

SOME EXCLUDED

Their figures are based on a survey of 35,000 Canadian households. They do not include students and housewives who have not sought outside work, persons too old or unable to work, and the voluntarily idle or retired.

The unemployed represented 5.7 per cent of the labor force, estimated at 7,712,000 persons, an increase of 3 per cent or 222,000 over April, 1967.

Seasonally adjusted, the unemployment rate was 4.6 per cent in April compared to 4.7 in March and 3.9 a year earlier.

Those with jobs totalled 7,216,000, an above-average increase of 156,000 over March.

Farm employment rose by 71,000 during the month while non-farm employment increased by 85,000.

Gains during the month in non-farm industries were widespread. Manufacturing absorbed 32,000 workers, 22,000 found jobs in construction, 15,000 in transportation, communication and other utilities, and another 11,000 in trade.

ALL AREAS

All areas showed a higher unemployment rate in April than they did a year earlier.

The Atlantic rate was 10.2 per cent compared to 9.9; Quebec was 8 per cent compared to 6.1 and Ontario 3.8 compared to 3.6.

On the Prairies the unemployment rate for April was 3.1 compared to 2.7 and British Columbia was up to 6.6 compared to 5.3.

Seasonally adjusted, the unemployment rate was 4.6 per

'Cowardly' Man Fined

A man who "drove off in a cowardly manner" from the scene of an accident was fined $400 Thursday in Central Magistrates' Court, and had his drivers licence suspended.

Sidney Cooke, 856 Claremont, pleaded guilty to failing to remain at the scene of an accident.

"Few acts are more reprehensible. Without concern for anyone's possible injuries, you drove off in this cowardly manner," magistrate William Oster told the accused.

Court was told the charge arose from an April 28 accident at Timberlane and Cordova Bay Road, in which each car involved suffered about $500 damage.

A stay of proceedings against Paul Durrell, 21, of 956 Madison, was requested by the Crown.

A charge of possession of marijuana to which Durrell had pleaded not guilty was suspended. Prosecutor Edward Pollard told court a new charge would be forthcoming.

Charges of common assault and wilful damage were withdrawn against Basilios Colove Topoulas, also known as Bill Cole, of 642 Johnson.

Instead he was charged with committing rape on May 15. He was remanded until May 22 to consult counsel.

Christopher Kitley, 1414 Gladstone was sentenced to five days in jail for vagrancy.

George Tracy, 526 Johnson Street, was fined $25 after pleading guilty to causing a disturbance in the lobby of a Johnson Street hotel, May 15.

Randolf Fry, 3872 Carey Road was fined $35 after pleading guilty to a charge of being a minor in possession of liquor.

A fine of $356 was imposed on Frederick Henry, 118 Robertson, after he pleaded guilty to a charge of driving while impaired.

Court was told that on March 29, Henry drove his car along Craigflower Road, crossing the centre line three times in a half mile.

A man who drove while his licence was suspended was sent to jail for two months. He also received a 15 day sentence for careless driving.

Lawrence Joe, 7288 West Saanich Road, will serve the terms consecutively.

Court was told that Joe was involved in an accident on West Saanich Road, Feb. 24. He had a previous licence suspension in 1966.

Fined for careless driving were: John Burns, 2700 Lansdowne, $35; John Elliott, Port Renfrew, $40; James Walter Norris, 3103 Metchosin, $100; John Norton, 4730 Spring, $50 and Donald McGee, 1702 Newton, $40.

Sunday Act 'Violated' By 300

Members of city council finance committee were told Thursday that more than 300 business places in Victoria were violating the Lord's Day Act by remaining open on Sundays.

Consensus was that the law was outdated and should be changed, and so the committee will ask council to foster a resolution, at the Union of B.C. Municipalities convention in Vancouver in September, calling for a full investigation of the act.

First United Church complained the law was being violated. It asked for stricter control.

Earlier, aldermen discussed the matter and decided that enforcement of the act was a provincial matter. However, they asked for a report from the chief of police.

A crippled Japanese freighter is providing extra work for shipyard workers at Yarrow's, and lending substance to a declaration made last week that the yards must be kept open—if only to repair vessels damaged on the west coast.

At that time John Wallace, general manager of Yarrow's Ltd., attacked both the provincial and federal governments.

The night Mr. Wallace made his statement, the 12,943-ton freighter Yoko Maru, bound for Japan with 23,000 tons of coal, crashed into two railway bridges between Vancouver and North Vancouver.

The massive repair job necessitates two shifts and overtime for 150 men, formerly laid off for lack of work.

The B.C. social welfare department has won the Public Relations Society of America's Silver Anvil Award in the Community Relations—Government division for its work with foster children and parents, during 1967.

The award, accepted by Mrs. Laura Fowler, B.C. adoption placement consultant, was presented at the 24th Annual Silver Anvil Awards banquet Thursday in New York.

There were significant increases in foster and adoption home placements as a result of the program.

The USS Marathon, a 165-foot aluminum U.S. Navy gunboat capable of 30 knots, will tie up at HMC Dockyard today through Monday. The newly-built craft will not be open to the public.

Fair View Of Tots, Fathers

Patent fathers and eager tots are in view everywhere at Jayco's Fair, where photographer William E. John picked off John J. Quiser, above, and his three-year-old daughter, Tina Marie, with balloons, and Victoria Conservative candidate Eric Charnian and 2½-year-old son Wallace, with hotdogs. Thursday's crowd was an estimated 25,000.

Conversation of Music May Move Into Castle

The Victoria Conservatory of Music will have a new home in Craigdarroch Castle sometime after July, if city council follows the recommendation of its finance committee.

Announcement of conservatory status was made by the Victoria School of Music early in April, in conjunction with an affiliation with Victoria University. Negotiations for the castle have been in progress for some months, but have hinged on the condition that Greater Victoria school board vacate the building which it has used for 39 years. Mayor Hugh Stephen said Thursday that he had received word that the school board was ready to leave July 1 or soon after, and he proposed that the conservatory be allowed to move in. The castle was now being used as a book repository and for "various odds and ends connected with the school board," the mayor said. However, storage space had been found on the Lansdowne campus, and the city-owned historic building would be available.

The mayor proposed that the conservatory take over from the city on a nominal rental basis, and that it take care of maintenance and upkeep. The city would incorporate the grounds into its park system and take care of them.

Spare the Babies

By M. V. OSEBUNT

You may have noticed that whenever I have given instructions for the starting of seeds indoors or under glass, I have always insisted upon the thorough watering of the soil in the pots or boxes BEFORE the seeds are sown, preferably with boiling water or with a soil fungicide to kill off disease spores.

After the seeds are sown, I have recommended the covering of the pot with a square of plastic film held in place with a rubber band. The idea here is to hold in the moisture, making it unnecessary to do any watering at all until after the seeds come up.

This is because I have a pronounced aversion to pouring or sprinkling water on soil in which seeds have been sown. In my experience, this is almost always followed by trouble of one kind or another.

If the soil has much clay in its composition, it will form a hard crust after watering, sealing the surface and cutting off air from the seeds, and making it difficult for tiny seedlings to break through the hard crust. Even in a good, loose, porous soil, surface watering encourages damping-off disease in the seedlings and tends to wash small seeds out of position.

This dislike on my part for watering seeded soil carries over into outdoor sowing too, and whenever possible, I like to fix things so no watering is required until after the baby plants are well up. This is why I always pour water—or a weak fertilizer solution—into the seed furrows before sowing the seeds.

Mind you, it isn't always possible to maintain enough moisture in the soil to last until the seeds come up, and especially on hot, south-facing, sun-baked soil, the problem is how to keep the soil from drying out without pouring water on its surface. This past few years I have been adapting some of my indoor seed-starting techniques to outdoor sowing.

For large seeds and widely spaced seeds, one simple stunt is to cover each seed with a jam jar. This is not, as may be supposed to protect the seed or seedling from frost, but simply to conserve moisture. Moisture evaporating from the soil condenses on the sides of the jar and runs right down into the soil again, and none is lost.

For smaller seeds and more scattered sowings, I have been making good use of old seed flats. I knock the rotted bottoms out of these shallow wooden boxes and substitute sheets of plastic held in place with thumb tacks.

These extemporized frames are used like the jam jars, but covering a whole patch of seeds rather than a single seed. Both frames and jars must come off as soon as the seeds come up, though, for baby plants need plenty of air and ventilation.

Very tiny plants will still need some protection against wind, bathing rain and overly hot sun, though, and to provide this protection, I use my handy bottomless shallow boxes again. This time with sheer cloth thumbtacked over them instead of plastic. The sheer cloth admits plenty of air while casting some slight shade and keeping off the wind.

For row crops in the vegetable plot where constant protection isn't practicable without considerable trouble and expense, a good way to conserve moisture is to cover the newly sown row with a good thick layer of lawn mowings. Take a peck from time to time and take them off as soon as the seedlings start to come through. They can be left on for strong-growing weeds like peas, beans and corn, which will push up right through the mowings.

Reseeded patches of lawn may be covered with a sheet of plastic held in place with bricks or stones around the edge. This, too, must be taken off as soon as the grass seedlings can be seen.

American Volk Wants Ein Better Image

TV Unfair to Germans Ist

By PAUL COATES

The other day the German-American community leaders got together a "bund" for the purpose of "combating the misperception of their ethnic group" on television and in the movies.

What came out of it was a stinging rebuke for the entertainment industry who the German-Americans say give them short shrift on the telly. They are always portrayed as the villains or mad scientists.

As a result, they are considering the idea of forming a sort of anti-defamation league for the Germans.

In answer to your question, "Ist dia not ein schmitzel-bank?" It is definitely not. It's deadly serious.

"Other communities have their anti-defamation leagues," Erwin Single, the editor of the New Yorker Staats-Zeitung and Herald, the German-language daily, said. "The Italians even have two Maybe we ought to have at least one."

It's true, you know, that the Italians have two anti-defamation leagues. But one is for the rank and file Italians. The other one, apparently, is dedicated only to ferreting out and to squashing rumors that tend to defame Frank Sinatra.

Single said German-Americans in Canada had recently started writing letters to protest what they consider to be German slurs on TV and other media.

"Effective fight against anti-German television films and documentaries as well as improvement of German prestige in America" was the major item on the agenda.

However, I'm very much afraid that this is one "putch" which will not get off the ground.

You see, the person who tells in television is the true superman, and his particular "Unter den Linden" is Madison Avenue which is systematic ally eradicating all the "good Germans" with the exception, naturally, of that little old winemaker.

When a good German is good, he's very, very good. But unfortunately, there's no market on TV shows for a good German.

Look at it this way, if we reject our position on the Aryans, what the hell are we going to do with all those Second World War flicks on the late, late show starring Ernie von Stroheim?

And in a Republic picture's epic, I know full well that Vera Hruba Ralston is again ready and able to play the beautiful young girl against a mad scientist stalls as prey for one of his evil experiments.

In a basement laboratory, he concocts a brew of vicious chemicals on his bunsen burner that will make Vera turn from a tasty tidbit of a lass into a veritable monster with hair all over her body, or at least on her upper lip.

A few minor details like that not withstanding, I've already finished the scenario. But if the Germans don't want the part, who can we get to play the mad scientist?

Boris Karloff is kind as old hat. Bela Lugosi is not so much any longer and the more the pity.

Of course you can always get a British import, perhaps one of those old Shakespearean actors who would double as a mad scientist. But with all the trouble the Empire is having, it behooves us to help a proper British gentleman present a good image. And a mad scientist is decline in our society.

I mean, would you like your daughter to marry one? So, sorry to say, but the German actor's lot to play those roles. It's not prejudice, it's merely type casting which I suppose amounts to the same thing. But remember, in these days, it's "TV uber alles."

RICHARD BURTON Talks to SHEILAH GRAHAM

Liz Gets Huge Jewel

LONDON (NANA) — "For my fourth wedding anniversary with Elizabeth, I took back an old emerald ring I had given her, and in exchange I'm giving her the most exciting emerald in the world." I believe it is also the biggest, Richard, in London to star in Where Eagles Dare, was planning to bid for it at an auction. Elizabeth had heard of the impending sale and alerted Richard. "It's all her doing," he said, "I'm just paying for it." Elizabeth's present to Richard: a gold cocktail shaker.

"With the gold scare, diamonds and emeralds really are a girl's best friend," Richard added. It isn't the value, however, that appeals to Miss Taylor; she just loves jewels. "When we were at a premiere a couple of years ago," said Richard, "out of sheer boredom, I started counting how much Elizabeth was worth, just standing there. It came to more than a million dollars. And since then she has acquired many more."

When the famed couple was robbed in Ireland while Richard was starring in The Spy Who Came In From The Cold, he was in the suite when the burglar took place and didn't hear a thing. The least expensive item in the $150,000 haul was a $1,500 bracelet with dangling gold coins that Richard had given his wife, and that, together with a slim ruby necklace "that cost about $150, was what Elizabeth was most upset about."

For her next film, with Frank Sinatra, The Only Game In Town, Elizabeth will have to lose 10 pounds, Richard said.

"But," he added quickly, "I love her the way she is." Richard's next film, Laughter in the Dark, from the Nabokov story, will start a week after he completes the current film for Elstree Studios, in London and the South of France; Richard and Elizabeth have no plans to work in Hollywood. "Laughter" will be followed by The Staircase in Paris with Rex Harrison. The Keep, which Burton describes as "a Welsh Virginia Woolf," will be made in Wales, and he will not be co-starring with Elizabeth.

The next one together will be in 1969, their film version of Macbeth, which Richard would rather direct. But Elizabeth and others connected with the project are urging him to play the gloomy Scottish king. And he heobably will.

Meanwhile, Burton is investing in land all over the world. "She can have the jewelry, I have the land" — in Tenerife, Jamaica, Ireland, South of France, Switzerland. "We spend a sixth of our annual income," continued the star, who was bundled up in his aviator's costume for the film. "And we give a lot of money away. But not to organized charities. We have our own method of giving."

It is true that within two years, Elizabeth will retire from her acting career, "except for bits and pieces. I won't," said Richard, "although I'm not as devoted to being an actor as people think. I really became an actor to please my father (Philip Burton, who adopted Richard). He was and is, mad. Actually, an actor does everything to please everyone." The Burtons do most things to please each other.

SYDNEY HARRIS

Airs His Thoughts

Perhaps the most misunderstood, misused and abused word in the modern lexicon is "individualism" — and for every one person who uses it legitimately, 100 invoke it in order to promote or defend some course of action that is neither truly good for themselves nor for their society.

Twelve nations are now capable of making atomic weapons; and soon 40 nations will be able to make 5,000 nuclear bombs; in fact, the growth of nuclear reactors will eventually enable dozens of bombs a year to be manufactured secretly, by a division of only 1 per cent of the product — how can any "treaty" hope to counteract this expansion?

When Americans rail against "dissenters," they should remember that everything in the Declaration of Independence was once a "dissenting opinion" from the laws of the British colony, and that the entire original constitution was a formalized "dissent" from the prevailing law and government in the 18th century world.

One treason young children do poorly in school is that they don't listen; and the main reason they don't listen is that by the time they enter school they have conditioned themselves not to listen to adults, for most of what they hear is admonition, rebuke and nagging.

"Hate is the subtlest form of violence," warned Gandhi; and the haters, who may never lift a finger themselves, are perhaps more responsible for "violence in the streets" than those who create the actual violence.

I've never yet held a door open for a man behind me without getting a "Thank you," but dozens of times I've held a door open for a woman behind me without even getting a nod of appreciation as she sails through in a mist of self-approval. Wasn't it Gertrude Altheim, a long time ago, who wrote a scathing article called "Ladies Are Not Gentlemen"?

Confidence, once lost or betrayed, can never be restored again to the same measure; and we learn too late in life that our acts of deception are irrevocable — they may be forgiven, but they cannot be forgotten by their victims.

The phrase, "Long time no see," is parodied only now greeting an unreturned bishop who has returned from a decade of banishment.

LADYSMITH—A dramatic plea for help, passed on to a gas station operator's wife has led to a man being charged with kidnapping an Alberta couple at gunpoint while they were camping near here this week.

William Charles Smith, 37, of no fixed address, was remanded to Riverview mental hospital after appearing before Magistrate Lance Heard.

The couple, Howard Frank, 26, and Audrey Swanson, 24, spent Thursday night at Miracle Beach and left for their Edmonton homes today.

NEARBY CAMPER

"A man camping nearby came up to us and threatened us with a revolver," they said.

"He seemed to be about 45, and was not very coherent. He had several days' growth of beard."

The man told them they would have to take him to Victoria where he had to catch a ferry to Vancouver.

NOT SCARED

Miss Swanson said she was nervous, but not really scared.

The man stayed with them all night at their campsite.

"He did not use any violence, except for threatening us with the revolver," they said.

He forced them to drive toward Duncan Wednesday morning. They reached a service station at Chemainus where Mrs. J. C. Rumley, wife of the operator, was attending the pumps.

SEEMED UNHAPPY

"They came in a small red sedan," she said. "The young man asked me to fill up the tank. Somehow they seemed unhappy."

"There was a man sitting in the back seat, but I couldn't see his face. He sat behind the girl. The young man in the driver's seat handed me a folded $10 bill and inside I found a note written on toilet paper asking me to alert the police."

PHONED MOUNTIES

Mrs. Rumley said as soon as they left she phoned Mounties RCMP.

"At first I wondered whether or not it was a joke, but even if it was a joke you wouldn't take any chance."

Police officers stopped the car a short distance from the service station. Because they weren't sure who was the kidnapper, they grabbed Mr. Frank as well.

NO RESISTANCE

The accused man did not resist arrest, said the officers.

Later the couple went to thank Mrs. Rumley, and "I took a picture for my scrap book."

She said: "Audrey told me they wrote another note on toilet tissue and left it in the restroom in Ivy Green Park. The fellow told the young people he had the gun and two knives."

Senate Rejects Rifle-Sale Ban

French Workers Seize Factories

Pompidou on TV

PARIS (AP)—Workers, following the lead of France's rebellious students, took control of at least six French factories Thursday, welding themselves shut in one. Across the country, a wave of social disorder was shaking the calm, prosperous face that France shows to the world.

In a nationwide broadcast Premier George Pompidou appealed desperately for order, saying agitators are trying to destroy "the very basis of our civilization."

President de Gaulle is on a state visit in Romania.

Pompidou had told students earlier Thursday night that he recognized their legitimate demands for university reforms, but that the government would not "tolerate the disruption of republican order."

As he spoke about 1,000 undergraduates marched from the Paris Latin Quarter to one of the strike-bound plants in the capital's industrial belt and said they would sit-in with the workers.

In developments Thursday, the 2,500 workers at the nationalized Sud-Aviation factory at Nantes who occupied the plant Tuesday and locked up the director in their fight against a longer work week, welded factory gates shut to keep police out.

Nationalized Renault auto plants at Rouen, Le Havre, Le Mans and Flins just outside Paris began sit-down strikes. Entrances and exits were barred at Flins, where the red flag flew.

Strikers demands ranged from pay parity with Paris workers to restoration of the 40-hour week. The move seemed to be spreading to the main Boulogne-Billancourt plant in Paris and to one at Suresnes. More than 20,000 workers were involved including Bordeaux shipyard workers who went out to protest against reduction in shipbuilding.

The upheaval, threatening to spread to French farms as well, appears to have its roots in economic problems joined with uncertainty, even frustration about the future.

Buffer Zone Agreement Could End Viet Bombing

PARIS (UPI) — U.S. chief negotiator Averell Harriman indicated Thursday night that acceptance by Hanoi of his proposal for restoration of the demilitarized buffer zone might be sufficient to persuade President Johnson to order a total halt to bombing of North Vietnam.

Harriman, in a television interview, said restoration of the zone separating North and South Vietnam "might be a breaking point" in the Paris talks impasse, especially if it resulted in cutting down infiltration of men and supplies to the south.

The U.S. ambassador-at-large said, however, that North Vietnamese infiltration "has been going along at a very high rate." (See also Page 5)

"They haven't shown any indication of exercising restraint," he said.

The U.S. called on North Vietnam earlier Thursday to halt public propaganda duels and open genuine Vietnam peace talks in private.

But the communists gave no sign they were ready to do so. Hanoi served new notice it would not even discuss peace with the U.S. while Harriman and North Vietnamese chief envoy Xuan Thuy prepared their strategy for the next formal meeting of the Paris talks — scheduled for Saturday morning.

In the last session of the talks Wednesday, Harriman had proposed that both sides withdraw their troops from the demilitarized zone as a first step toward cutting down the scale of the fighting.

In the same interview, Harriman said that the U.S. would not even discuss peace with the U.S. while Harriman and North Vietnamese chief envoy Xuan Thuy prepared their strategy for the next formal meeting of the Paris talks — scheduled for Saturday morning.

U.S. Tornado Toll 70 Lives Japan Reels in Third Quake

TOKYO (AP) — Japan's third earthquake in 24 hours shattered through northern Honshu, the country's main island, this morning. It was less strong than the two that wrecked thousands of buildings and killed at least 38 persons Thursday.

The Central Meteorological Agency said the new quake registered only three on the seven-point Japanese scale but could be disastrous to structures weakened by the first two quakes.

No reports of damage were available immediately.

OUT TO SEA

The agency located the latest quake's epicentre about 25 miles under the surface of the north Pacific, about 120 miles out to sea.

Fires and tidal waves added to the destruction caused by the two strong shocks Thursday.

Police listed nine persons as missing and 228 as injured in today's quake.

MORE COMING

The first shock Thursday stopped clocks at 9:49 a.m. and the second came about 10 hours later. The Central Meteorological Agency said after shocks will continue for a month or more.

Radio Moscow reported in a Japanese-language broadcast that the Soviet-held southern Kurile Islands were similarly battered. It said nothing about casualties there.

UTILITIES OUT

Japanese police reported more than 2,000 houses were destroyed or damaged on Honshu, Japan's main island, and hundreds were flooded. Travel and communications were disrupted and many communities were without utilities.

The epicentre of Thursday's quake was pinpointed at 25 miles below the floor of the Pacific 93 miles off Cape Erimo of Hokkaido, the northernmost of Japan's main islands.

BIG ONE

The meteorological agency said the magnitude at the epicentre was 7.8 on a Japanese scale with a normal maximum of 7. The 7.8 reading was the strongest recorded here since Sept. 1, 1923, when Tokyo and Yokohama were laid waste by a quake of 7.9 magnitude. That quake killed 143,000 persons and destroyed 3,000,000 homes.

'Jumbo-ized' Ships

Bennett Fleet May Stretch Ferry Dollars

By IAN STREET, Legislative Reporter

VANCOUVER — Within a few months the provincial government must make a choice between creating a fleet of "stretch ferries" and building new ships, Premier Bennett indicated here Thursday.

The premier gave the hint in an interview aboard the latest acquisition and largest ship in the government fleet, Queen of the Sunshine Coast, during the vessel's inaugural run from Horseshoe Bay to Langdale, across island-studded Howe Sound.

A steady rise in ferry traffic, around 10 per cent annually, is forcing authorities to look into every possible means of making the service—in the premier's words—"more flexible with the existing ships."

Mr. Bennett outlined a series of proposed shifts in vessels which could see one of the full-size Queens put into the mainland-to-Gulf Islands service and the Queen of the Islands replacing the smaller Comox Queen on the run across Georgia Strait to Powell River.

Ferry officials stressed, however, that the changes couldn't be brought about until the early summer of 1969 because there would have to be terminal modifications to accommodate the larger vessels.

The proposed shifts would provide a ship with the regular 145-car capacity on the service out of Tsawwassen to Long Harbour on Salt Spring Island. The Queen of the Islands, with room for 60 cars, which now covers this service, would bring increased capacity to the busy three-times daily Comox-to-Powell River link.

This would free the Comox Queen, with a 35-car capacity, for use as an extra vessel on the Howe Sound run. The Sun-

Black Ghost Car Haunts Mounties

NANAIMO (CP) — Wesley Black, British Columbia's new highways minister, says he turned the tables Wednesday and stopped a police car.

"I blew my horn and he stopped," said the smiling minister. "The RCMP officer asked me what I wanted, and I told him I wanted to be the first highways minister in B.C. to stop the RCMP, for a change."

His predecessor, F. A. Gagliardi, was stopped a number of times by police and given tickets for speeding.

Mr. Black, in a tongue-in-cheek interview here, said he plans to stop more RCMP cars on the highways.

The most massive and destructive onslaught of tornadoes this spring left at least 70 persons dead in parts of the United States Thursday.

More than 1,000 persons were injured, three were listed as missing and damage to homes and buildings ran into millions of dollars.

NINE STATES

The winds cut through parts of nine states in the mid-U.S. late Wednesday and early Thursday and literally shredded several communities.

Wapella, a central Illinois community of 500, was 50 per cent damaged. Every building in the community except the high school was destroyed or damaged. Four persons were killed and more than 50 injured in the community.

3,000 HOMES

An estimated 2,000 homes and 15 businesses were destroyed in Charles City, Iowa, a city with a population of more than 10,000. Another 1,000 homes suffered major damage. Twelve Charles City residents were killed and 367 injured.

Oil Trough, Ark., a town of 23, was virtually demolished.

DDD to John D May Bring Visit

OLD CHIEF COMING
There is a strong possibility John Diefenbaker will be here sometime during the election year. He is waiting for a to get his own plans for Prince Albert sorted out, and for a formal invitation.

The word came courtesy of B.C. Telephone Co. and Tory candidate Eric Charman.

A B.C. Tel. representative asked, Mr. Charman, if he would like to try out direct distance dialing, so he called the Chief.

It's hardly likely that Diefenbaker will join Robert Stanfield on the same platform, but it is certain he could draw a large crowd.

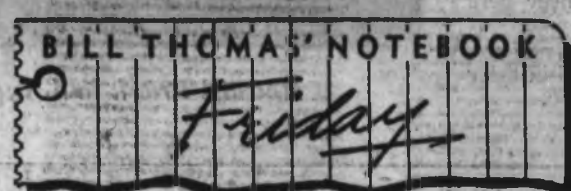

Possibly he could explain why Pierre Trudeau has switched the approach on Quebec and is now for federalism while Mr. Stanfield is for an accommodation. Diefenbaker says he will fight the two nations idea to his "last breath."

Meanwhile, back at the Jaxsons fair, the Tory stand is getting desperate. Three nights in a row their only date's picture has been fished from the back of the stand. There must be art thieves at work in the area.

BEAVING ON: Singer Bob Fosse is enjoying his stay with Ken Hule at the Red Lion so much he has decided to stay on for home.

The CBC veteran has taken a job selling advertising for a local radio station and starts to beat the bushes Tuesday. Next week, Thomas Gibson returns by the Lion, which seems to have the best sound system in town at the moment.

HOME AGAIN: After a month working on the wreck of the oil carrier Mandoll II, our man Dick Wood is back in town from Nooka.

He works for Island Tug and Barge, which has been doing a salvage job on the Swedish-built vessel, Starling June 6, he will join the crew of the Roar of the Grease Paint in the McPherson Playhouse.

The musical directed by Vancouver's Bob Ross also stars Bob Price and Harry Hill, who did so well in the Odd Couple.

In this show Dick Wood sings Feeling Good.

NOTE TO CAMPAIGN POSTER-POSTERS: The B.C. Telephone Co. has asked that no posters be posted on telephone poles. Which raises the point of how to tell a telephone pole from a power pole. There are several ways, as follows:

Shimmy up the pole with two pieces of wire with battery clamps on each end. Stick one wire in each ear and clamp the other ends to the lines. If you hear people talking, don't use that pole.

It would be a bit off to suggest that all burgers cost this much, but there must be a happy medium. A compromise can be struck between the bun and the meat that is tempting.

Time and again we are told what this city needs is more gourmet restaurants. Well, it might be worth adding that what need more good hamburger spots, too.

telephone, no dice. If they end in a toaster, go ahead.

TOUGH GO: A local delegate to last week's Canadian Labour Congress convention at Toronto decided to take in some of the night action.

He visited one of topless waitress emporia. A fellow unionist was prompted to ask, "And where do they pin their union buttons?"

MEMO TO CRA: The Canadian Restaurant Association could do us all a great big favor. Director for Vancouver Island, Bill Webb, knocks himself out trying to upgrade the industry, but there is one small thing they have all overlooked — hamburgers.

It is almost impossible to get a good hamburger, that lowliest of gourmet treats, in Greater Victoria. There is a place in Seattle which charges $2.50 for a hamburger and the place is full, so it seems people will pay for a well-made item.

It would be a bit off to suggest that all burgers cost this much, but there must be a happy medium. A compromise can be struck between the bun and the meat that is tempting.

Your Good Health

Cover Mouth in Coughing

By JOSEPH MOLNER, MD
Dear Dr. Molner: Would you please, please write about people who don't cover their mouths when they cough?

We have a dear friend who has cancer and coughs over food, friends and even children with her. A thought of the germ she is spreading. When she has a cold, everyone in her family gets it.

I have tried hints and talking of the dangers of spreading germs, but it doesn't sink in. I know she reads your column, so an article might help. — Mrs. G.

The cancer aspect is of minor importance, since cancer isn't spread by germs. It isn't contagious.

But nobody knows how much other disease is spread by careless coughing — certainly a great deal.

For example, one thing that a patient learns in any well-run tuberculosis hospital is to cover a cough. Such patients learn to keep disposable tissues handy. When a cough starts to tickle, up comes a tissue to muffle it and catch the inevitable droplets of moisture.

Tissue is almost primarily at preventing the spread of TB, but there are plenty of other harmful germs that shouldn't be coughed into other folks' faces or food.

Cold germs are the ones we think of mostly — cold and flu. But there can be various throat infections, minor or major, and infection means germs. A cough can spray those germs. The germs, by and large, are carried on the tiny water droplets, which can fly a considerable distance — several feet — from a cough.

Dear Dr. Molner: Is there any kind of operation to fix one's ears so they don't stick out? I am 18 and mine have caused me embarrassment most of my life. If something can be done, how would I go about having it done? Would I consult an ear specialist? I am so tired of being called "big ears." — G.E.P.

Yes, something can be done. No, don't go to an ear specialist, who is concerned with the inside, not the visible part of the ears. Go to your regular physician, and ask him to refer you to a plastic surgeon. Changing the angle of the ears is an operation which is being used regularly.

Dear Dr. Molner: Would eating three bulbs of garlic in one day help bring down high blood pressure? — M.O.

No. But I can't vouch for what it might do to people who smell your breath. That garlic-for-blood-pressure notion is an old one, with no evidence to support it. There are less aromatic means for controlling blood pressure.

Outlook Bleak in School Strike

DUNCAN — An attempt to find "common ground" for further negotiations between the Canadian Union of Public Employees and the Cowichan School Board, came to an abrupt halt within minutes Thursday night.

CUPE representatives, the school board's salary committee and board chairman Joe Frumento met.

After the meeting, the board issued the following press release:

"The union was not prepared to compromise nor yield from the position taken which led to the strike."

CUPE spokesman Tom Smith said "The board was advised that the union was not prepared to accept less than the unanimous conciliation board award."

Trustee's Wife With Strikers

By JEAN MacGREGOR

DUNCAN—The strike of 28 office workers employed by Cowichan District School Board, has brought about a odd situation:

The wife of one of the board's trustees is a member of the picket line.

Terry Taylor, principal of Yount Elementary School at Yubou, in the Lake Cowichan School District, is in his first year as a trustee on the Cowichan School Board.

His wife, a secretary at Duncan Elementary School, is one of the office workers on strike because of a wage dispute between the school board and the Canadian Union of Public Employees.

WAGE VOTE

Trustee Taylor has attended general board meetings in connection with the strike, but he stated Thursday he had abstained from voting when the board voted on the wage increase prior to the strike.

The board had previously offered the fulltime office workers an 8.5 per cent increase. The union had requested 15.25 per cent.

The matter went before a conciliation board which made a unanimous award of 13.5 per cent to the office workers.

TURNUED DOWN

The award was turned down by the board, and Monday morning the office workers went on strike.

Trustee Taylor is not a member of the salary committee which is negotiating with the union, but as a member of the Cowichan School Board he has a right to vote on the final decision made by the board.

He stated Thursday, "I feel strongly that the schools should be functioning at full capacity and efficiency, and my vote would help to bring this about, I will vote."

He added, "I would prefer to abstain from voting, but I will vote if, for example, a tie must be broken."

A. G. Markides, a representative of CUPE, stated, "As far as CUPE is concerned Mrs.

Taylor is not jeopardizing her husband's position on the board."

Parents have been made responsible for transporting their children to and from school, and Board Chairman Joe Frumento said more than 80 per cent of the district's 5,300 students are in attendance at classes.

NO PERMIT

Meanwhile, a CUPE headquarters, spokesman Tom Smith said Thursday that contrary to recent reports, Anchor Transit Ltd., of Duncan, has not been issued a permit by CUPE to transport Indian students to public schools.

The bus company has a contract with the federal government to transport students to the parochial school, Queen of Angels, the federally-governed school, St. Catherine's, and Indian students who attend secondary schools in the district.

Mr. Smith said, "We did not issue a permit for this company to operate school buses in so far as the strike is concerned."

The union had requested 15.25 per cent.

Car Mangled As Youth Dies

COURTENAY — The Cornov Valley registered its fourth traffic fatality in slightly more than a month, when 18-year-old William Rayden Clough was killed early Thursday morning.

The 4:50 a.m. single-car accident occurred at the bottom of the Sandwick Hill near the memorial cairn.

Police said the car left the road and hit a telephone pole. It was completely demolished by the impact, and wreckage from the vehicle was strewn in a radius of 100 feet.

The vehicle was a homemade custom model, partially from wood. It was believed to have been powered by a large American car engine.

All that remained of the car was a wooden floor frame on the chassis. The rest including the chromed engine, was a mangled mess.

The dead youth was a resident of Muir Road, near Courtenay.

'Work with Tourists, Indians'

DUNCAN — A more active chamber, covering a wider range of activities, including areas like Indian relations and better tourist promotion, has been proposed for the Duncan chamber.

John Tibbitts, western representative of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, listed some of his findings for Duncan Chamber Directors, following a survey in the area.

Mr. Tibbitts has been conducting a development clinic at the request of the chamber, and he said a complete report on the survey and recommendations for the chamber will be sent out in June.

Street Interviews

Mr. Tibbitts said he has spoken to 24 people, including chamber directors, Duncan businessmen and people he has stopped on the street.

The people interviewed were asked several questions about the Duncan Chamber, including their opinions on its strengths, weaknesses, public image, dues and ways of raising money, and suggested improvements.

"A chamber is only as strong as its public image in the community," Mr. Tibbitts stated.

More Balance

He said he also asked people what activities the chamber should be involved in right now. He stated he received a variety of answers:

● Better balanced program. Mr. Tibbitts said this meant a more all-embracing program which would include short and long-range projects aimed at different segments of the community.

● More public relations. "There are public relations never hears about, which you have carried out successfully,"

Tibbitts

he said. "You are not patting yourself on the back enough."

● Not enough use of chamber office. "Your chamber office should be a beehive of activity for businessmen," Mr. Tibbitts noted, "and the public should be using the office as a constant source of information."

● More concentration on industrial development. "You have made a good start in trying to bring secondary industry into this area," he said, "But you are sorely in need of a brochure and you should be collecting all statistics pertaining to this development."

● Immediate incorporation. Tibbitts said the chamber should be incorporated because the chamber represents businessmen. "This is a simple price which protects the members and puts the chamber on a sound business basis," he said.

● Indian relationships. Mr. Tibbitts said the chamber should have a policy on Indian relationships from an economic welfare standpoint, considering the Indians' prominent relationship with the city and municipality. He also recommended the chamber submit a resolution concerning this policy at the 1969 annual B.C. Chamber meeting.

● Need for increased committee activity. He stated, "If a committee does not meet at least once a month, then there is no need for that committee."

Duncan Chamber Hit For Lack of Drive

DUNCAN—"The chamber of commerce here does not take enough responsibility in civic affairs," complained Ronald Price of Duncan at joint recreation commission meeting.

"It often feels the chamber should be a body of leaders second to civic administration. They should be well respected, and they should be a driving force."

"We should hear from them more often and we should ask them whether or not they are in favor or against the proposed bylaw."

Mr. Price referred to the $800,000 recreation bylaw which is slated to be put to the voters in Duncan, the Southend of North Cowichan, and perhaps in some areas of unorganized South Cowichan at the end of September.

The bylaw would give this area a covered swimming pool and a community centre.

Chairman Mel Massey advised the commissioners "A major stumbling block regarding the bylaw has disappeared."

He said the regional district board recently went along with North Cowichan's request to change the raising of funds on a general purpose basis.

Recently the Cowichan Valley Regional District Board decided to ask for an amendment of the letters patent to have the cost of administration and function based on the assessment for general purposes.

Mr. Massey said the joint commission should start thinking towards the formation of a regional recreation commission particularly after the regional board decided to take on recreation as a function.

He said although the Duncan, North Cowichan and the South Cowichan recreation commissions meet jointly, they are not yet a combined legal entity.

The regional board's request to take on recreation as a function and other amendments to the letters patent still have to receive the approval of the provincial government.

Residents Back June Vote

CHEMAMUS—The $1,046,900 referendum for the Ladysmith School District received full backing from members of the Chemamus Ratepayers and Citizens Association.

The vote will be held June 1. Both high school in the district will be developed.

A total of $478,000 will be spent on the Ladysmith school and $380,900 on the Chemamus school.

Included in the amount for Ladysmith High School will be: $17,500, clearing, rough grading and improvements; $350,000, building and $11,200 for equipment.

The breakdown for the Chemamus High School for the same projects respectively consists of $15,100, $320,00 and $75,700.

The grand total also includes costs for two unassigned classrooms, district maintenance and storage building, estimated costs of plans and supervision and $35,900 for contingency.

Administrator and secretary-treasurer R. W. Ovenden told the ratepayers "The plan is fully shareable with the department of education."

"On the basis of present assessment ($23,000,000) the plan will cost the electors 2.7 mills or $2.80 per $1,000 of "The plan in this referendum, if approved by the ratepayers, will provide a reasonable basic secondary plan of education for the district."

He said the situation may require the enrolment of Ladysmith students at Chemamus and vice versa.

The present enrolment at Chemamus high is 380 and at Ladysmith 536, and the school population will increase to 550 and 600 respectively by the 1971 term.

Construction could start as early as September if debentures can be sold, but the additions will not be ready for use until the beginning of the 1969 term.

In 1965, a school building referendum was heavily defeated by Chemamus taxpayers who strongly opposed a plan to upgrade mainly the Ladysmith high school.

Overcrowding Forces Poll

PORT ALBERNI — The school board wants permission from the education department to present a referendum next month for construction of a new junior high school.

Also in the vote will be alterations to A. W. Neill Junior High, three portable classrooms, and the gymnasium at Dunn Junior High.

The new junior high school is proposed for the central part of the city.

It is required largely because the enrolment at the senior high school by 1971 will be so large that the building will no longer be able to accommodate at present housed there.

A. W. Neill School has long been overcrowded, and plans call for a reduced enrolment and changes in curriculum.

The gymnasium badly needed at Dunn has been a matter of concern to teachers, board and parents ever since the school was constructed.

Permission was received from the department to call tenders for construction of essential classrooms which had been covered in a previous referendum.

The permission was granted after a delegation from the school trustees called on the Victoria office.

Tenders will be called for one classroom and library at Beaver Creek Elementary, four classrooms at John Hawk, and one large classroom, the equivalent of two ordinary rooms, at Beaufort School for the Retarded.

Permission was also given to call for tenders on six classrooms for Dunn, as well as permission to go ahead with $58,000 worth of work required at Alberni Elementary School to comply with orders from the fire marshal. The work to take care of the fire hazards will be carried out by the local firm of Danzo and Franco.

Dangerous Driver

NANAIMO—Albert Fred Widdall, 57, Vancouver, pleaded guilty to dangerous driving, in supreme court Thursday.

Crown had reduced the original charge of criminal negligence, causing the deaths of Mrs. Janet Marie Sweeney, 22, Gabriola Island, and Richard David Hall, 17, Victoria, March 22.

The two met their deaths when Mr. Widdall's car and the car in which the pair were riding suffered a sideswiping crash on the Island Highway, 10 miles south of Nanaimo.

Widdall was fined $1,000 and prohibited from driving for any other reason than his job as Vancouver postal department officer.

Island Scene

Port Alberni's returning officer Gail Wilson has issued a warning about the seriousness of interfering with voters' lists. His remarks were prompted by removal of a preliminary list from Poll 77 at 1416 Maitland.

Mr. Wilson says that the penalty for such an offence is up to two years hard labor, or a fine up to $2,000. He has reported the incident to the RCMP for investigation. "Any similar infractions will be sternly dealt with," he said. Enumerators have listed 12,868 names from the city and rural areas.

Mrs. Jack Whitall is a member of Port Alberni hospital board.

Educator Nominated At Liberal Meeting

More than 350 Liberals nominated school principal Richard Durante as their candidate for the Comox-Alberni riding in the June federal election.

The meeting was originally arranged for the Island Hall, Parksville, but because so many turned up, the organizers had to change the meeting place to the community hall.

There were four nominees—Joe Stanhope, a logging foreman from Port Alberni; Gilbert Johnson, a Gold River school teacher; and Bill Moore, former mayor of Courtenay and twice-defeated federal Liberal candidate.

Mr. Durante, who is 37 and principal of 8th Avenue elementary school, won the nomination on the first ballot.

In Nanaimo, Lorne Lee, 43, of 330 King Arthur's Court, was nominated by acclamation by the Social Credit Association for the Nanaimo-Cowichan-The Islands riding.

Mr. Lee said his platform will be something which will reach the working man. "I am a working man," he said.

He said he would also try to fight for the old age pensioners and against the national housing act.

Kennedy Unruffled by Hairy Query

Names in the News

LOS ANGELES — Touse-haired Sen. Robert Kennedy was addressing a crowd when someone shouted, "Why don't you get your hair cut?"

Kennedy stopped and said: "Here I am right at the peak of my speech and you say 'get your hair cut.' I've got my hair cut. I got it cut for Indiana. I got it cut for Nebraska and I got it cut for here, so quit telling me to get my hair cut. Someone else in the crowd called out "What about the population explosion?" Kennedy, whose wife Ethel is expecting her 11th child, said: "All of us should do our best to deal with it."

SANTA MONICA, Calif. — Canadian-born actor Glenn Ford was sued for divorce by actress

Kathryn Hays on grounds of extreme cruelty. They married March 27, 1966, in Los Angeles and separated April 8.

LUDLOW, Pa. — Volunteer firemen responded quickly when the engine of Leroy Harkins' milk truck caught on fire. They didn't have bothered. Harkins put the fire out with six quarts of milk.

COPENHAGEN, Denmark — A Czech-born U.S. airline pilot making the first transatlantic trip in a powered glider was greeted with a fine when he landed at an airport in southern Greenland. Capt. Mike Slevak, 31, a well-known Seattle hydroplane racing champion, left Scotland to fly to the U.S. in a glider powered by a tiny engine. He crossed the Greenland ice-cap but neglected to ask the airport at Soendre Stromsfjord for permission to land and was fined $100 on the spot.

SACRAMENTO, Calif. — Assemblyman Joe Gonsalves and Leo J. Ryan challenged each other to a milking duel after each had said how he had to milk cows as a boy. Gonsalves was a runaway winner, even though his cow knocked over the bucket halfway through.

GANDER, Nfld. — Viscount Montgomery of Alameda arrived here aboard an Air Canada overseas jet to begin a two-week Newfoundland visit.

Scouts Enter Float

The Tserlipp District Boy Scout Association will be entering a float in the Victoria Day parade this year for the first time.

"The float will demonstrate some Cub, Scout and Rover activities," said Jack Anderton, district scoutmaster, "and we hope it will encourage more young men to join the movement."

Scouts and fathers will build the 40-foot-long float on Saturday at the Cordova Bay Community Hall.

Officials are hoping the float will become an annual feature, with responsibility for it rotating among the nine districts in Greater Victoria.

Saanich Artist Paid for Work

Ralph Hall, a Saanich artist, has received a purchase award from the B.C. Teachers' Federation for his collage, Deadlock, which will be hung in the permanent collection in the federation building in Vancouver.

Owners Withdraw Sewer Objections

Campaign Trail

Barnett Storms Remote Points

PORT ALBERNI — While other parties are still choosing candidates and setting up schedules, incumbent Tom Barnett has already begun his trips around the more remote parts of his constituency, working hard toward re-election in June. Mr. Barnett left the Alberni Valley last week and has already spoken to electors in hard-to-reach spots like Fair

Barnett

Hotelman Carries A Torch

PORT ALBERNI—The Alberni Valley is soon to have one of the best flaming hotels in British Columbia, if Barclay Hotel President Bill Laschuk has his way.

A row of torches to light the facade and illuminate the Third Avenue side of the building is one of the many novel innovations promised.

Work begins this week on changes that will total $50,000.

Mr. Laschuk said more than $170,000 had been spent since purchase of the hotel in 1965 in remodeling lounge, beverage and restaurant areas, remodeling rooms and increasing parking facilities.

Stage two will include air-conditioning in all guest rooms, installation of color TV, remodeling of the banquet room with the addition of a tea lounge floor, stage area, and renovation of the restaurant.

Work on the dining area will be completed by July 1, and the balance of the work by next April.

Stage three will cost another $250,000 to add 18 new rooms to the third floor, plus complete furnishing and remodeling of the present third floor. Outside, the entire building will be given complete face-lift.

Work is being undertaken by Bezancon Construction of Vancouver, which specializes in hotel construction.

When the work is completed over a 36-month period, the hotel will have 90 air-conditioned rooms, dining room for 200 guests, and a 600-car parking lot.

Ted Paxton of Bezancon Construction, who was a guest at a party hosted by Mr. Laschuk to make the announcement, said the new plans will give the hotel one of the finest unique and elegant rooms in western Canada.

The hotel was built originally in the 1950's at the height of the industrial expansion in Port Alberni.

Presbyterian Fund Grows

TORONTO (CP) — The Presbyterian Church in Canada has raised the halfway mark in its $500,000 capital fund drive, according to a church spokesman. The funds will be used to increase the range of the ministry in training and service, purchase new church sites, upgrade the basic support of the ministry, assist in building university residences and add a new wing to the Indian friendship centre in Kenora, Ont.

New Director

OTTAWA (CP) — Arthur J. Smith has been appointed director of urban renewal and housing for Central Mortgage and Housing Corp. He is a graduate of the University of Toronto.

Harbour and the Tahsis area, as well as Zeballos and Kyauquot. Despite the fact that the Carter Report on Taxation came down hard on certain injustices in taxation that are of special interest to workers in remote places, Mr. Barnett said, the Liberal government has given no indication of action.

"Discrimination exists in tax laws which require loggers to include as taxable income the expense they incur for room and board away from home, and also for high cost air fares in periodic travel to and from their places of employment.

MILL GRIST

"Our cities would soon wither and die were it not for those who are prepared to go out into the frontiers of our land to engage in the exacting and highly-skilled work to supply the grist for the mill of our economy," Mr. Barnett stated.

Mr. Barnett also emphasized his concern with the results of exporting large quantities of minerals at the lowest level for manufacture in other parts of the world.

This he said, gives temporary prosperity to a community, but could have a disastrous effect on the long term results to the nation's economy.

RADIO BETTER

He expressed satisfaction that after years of pleading, some steps have been taken towards improving radio and television reception on the west coast and north Island areas of the widespread constituency.

He referred specifically to the recent opening of the CBC low-repeater stations in Tahsis, Uchaleet, and Port Alice.

EXTENSION

He expressed the hope the new Canadian Radio and Television Commission would bring about the speedup of TV coverage to all areas not reached by existing transmitting facilities.

CBC's tentative projection for extension of services to the North Island area, set for 1971, is much too long to wait, Mr. Barnett stated.

TELEVISION

The NDP candidate suggested a new act would make possible the co-ordination of service between direct projection and community antennae television systems.

Mr. Barnett is continuing his campaign in the north and west area of the riding this week.

LAKE COWICHAN — The seven riverfront property owners on the Cowichan River protested the location of a proposed sewer outlet, have withdrawn their objections.

The property-owners' solicitors, Oxt. Taylor and Co., informed village council the protesters will withdraw their objections to the application "so long as it is amended to provide for alternative outfall."

The original protest was made last fall by three Victoria men who own property on the river.

At that time, the village had proposed to put in a discharge outlet for treated effluent above the three properties.

After objections were raised, the council decided to move the outlet further upstream, and four other river property owners voiced their objections. Cost of the original sewer project was estimated at $560,000, and the council learned from engineers that the cost of moving the discharge outlet downstream below the seven properties would involve as much as $100,000 over and above the original estimate. Following consultation with engineers, the aldermen recommended the outlet be moved even further upstream to a point opposite Greendale Road, where the property is owned by MacMillan Bloedel.

LADYSMITH—A dramatic plea for help, passed on to a gas station operator's wife has led to a man being charged with kidnapping an Alberta couple at gunpoint while they were camping near here this week.

William Charles Smith, 37, of no fixed address, was remanded to Riverview mental hospital after appearing before Magistrate Lance Heard.

The couple, Howard Frank, 26, and Audrey Swanson, 24, spent Thursday night at Miracle Beach and left for their Edmonton home today.

Their ordeal started after they moved into Ivy Green campsite Tuesday evening.

NEARBY CAMPER
"A man camping nearby came up to us and threatened us with a revolver," they said.

"He seemed to be about 45, and was not very coherent. He had several days' growth of beard."

The man told them they would have to take him to Victoria where he had to catch a ferry to Vancouver.

NOT SCARED
Miss Swanson said she was nervous, but not really scared.

The man stayed with them all night at their campsite.

"He did not use any violence, except for threatening us with the revolver," they said.

He forced them to drive toward Duncan Wednesday morning. They reached a service station at Chemainus where Mrs. J. C. Rumley, wife of the operator, was attending the pumps.

SEEMED UNHAPPY
"They came in a small red sedan," she said. "The young man asked me to fill up the tank. Somehow they seemed unhappy."

"There was a man sitting in the back seat, but I couldn't see his face. He sat behind the girl. The young man in the driver's seat handed me a folded $10 bill and inside I found a note written on toilet paper asking me to alert the police."

PHONED MOUNTIES
Mrs. Rumley said as soon as they left she phoned Duncan RCMP.

"At first I wondered whether or not it was a joke, but even if it was a joke you wouldn't take any chance."

Police officers stopped the car a short distance from the service station. Because they weren't sure who was the kidnapper, they grabbed Mr. Frank as well.

NO RESISTANCE
The accused man did not resist arrest, said the officers.

Later the couple went to thank Mrs. Rumley, and "I took a picture for my scrap book."

She said: "Audrey told me they wrote another note on toilet paper and left it in the restaurant in Ivy Green Park. The fellow told the young people he had the gun and two knives."

Senate Rejects Rifle-Sale Ban

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Senate rejected Thursday an attempt to outlaw mail-order sales of rifles and shotguns but backed a ban on such sales of handguns.

Buffer Zone Agreement Could End Viet Bombing

PARIS (UPI) — U.S. chief negotiator Averell Harriman indicated Thursday night that acceptance by Hanoi of his proposal for restoration of the demilitarized buffer zone might be sufficient to persuade President Johnson to order a total halt to bombing of North Vietnam.

Andre Laurendeau, co-chairman of royal commission on bilingualism and biculturalism, has suffered intra-cranial hemorrhage. He was semi-conscious and his condition was described as "serious."

Laurendeau collapsed at his headquarters desk Wednesday.

Harriman, in a television interview, said restoration of the zone separating North and South Vietnam "might be a breaking point" in the Paris talks impasse, especially if it sign they were ready to do so.

But the communists gave no sign they were ready to do so. Hanoi served new notice it would not even discuss peace with the U.S. while Harriman and North Vietnamese chief envoy Xuan Thuy prepared their strategy for the next formal meeting of the Paris talks — scheduled for Saturday morning.

In the last session of the talks Wednesday, Harriman had proposed that both sides withdraw their troops from the demilitarized zone as a first step toward cutting down the scale of the fighting.

In the same interview, Harriman said he had proposed that both sides withdraw their troops from the demilitarized zone as a first step toward cutting down the scale of the fighting.

Factories Grabbed

PARIS (AP) — Workers, following the lead of France's rebellious students, took control of at least six French factories Thursday, welding themselves shut in one. Across the country, a wave of social disorder was shaking the calm, prosperous face that France shows to the world.

In a nationwide broadcast Premier George Pompidou appealed desperately for order, saying agitators are trying to destroy "the very basis of our civilization."

President de Gaulle is on a state visit in Roumania.

Pompidou had told students earlier Thursday night that he recognized their legitimate demands for university reforms, but that the government would not "tolerate the disruption of republican order."

As he spoke about 1,000 undergraduates marched from the Paris Latin Quarter to one of the strike-bound plants in the capital's industrial belt and said they would sit-in with the workers.

In developments Thursday, the 2,500 workers at the nationalized Sud-Aviation factory at Nantes who occupied the plant Tuesday and locked up the director in their fight against a longer work week, welded factory gates shut to keep police out.

Nationalized Renault auto plants at Rouen, Le Havre, Le Mans and Flins just outside Paris began sit-down strikes. Entrances and exits were barred at Flins, where the red flag flew.

Strikers demands ranged from pay parity with Paris workers to restoration of the 40-hour week. The move seemed to be spreading to the main Boulogne-Billancourt plant in Paris and to one at Sandouville. More than 20,000 workers were involved including Bordeaux shipyard workers who went out to protest against reduction in shipbuilding.

The upheaval, threatening to spread to French farms as well, appears to have its roots in economic problems joined with uncertainty, even frustration about the future.

Bennett Fleet May Stretch Ferry Dollars

By IAN STREET, Legislative Reporter

VANCOUVER — Within a few months the provincial government must make a choice between creating a fleet of "stretch ferries" and building new ships, Premier Bennett indicated here Thursday.

The premier gave the hint in an interview aboard the latest acquisition and largest ship in the government fleet, Queen of the Sunshine Coast, during the vessel's inaugural run from Hornsby Bay to Langdale, across island-studded Howe Sound.

A steady rise in ferry traffic, around 10 per cent annually, is forcing authorities to look into every possible means of making the service—in the premier's words—"more flexible with the existing ships."

Mr. Bennett outlined a series of proposed shifts in vessels which could see one of the full-size Queens put into the mainland-to-Gulf Islands service and the Queen of the Islands replacing the smaller Comox Queen on the run across Georgia Strait to Powell River.

Ferry officials stressed, however, that the changes couldn't be brought about until the early summer of 1969 because there would have to be terminal modifications to accommodate the larger vessels.

The proposed shifts would provide a ship with the regular 145-car capacity on the services out of Tsawwassen to Long Harbor on Salt Spring Island, The Queen of the Islands, with room for 80 cars, which now covers this service, would bring increased capacity to the busy three-times daily Comox-to-Powell River link.

This would free the Comox Queen, with a 35-car capacity, for use as an extra vessel on the Howe Sound run. The Sun-

Black Ghost Car Haunts Mounties

NANAIMO (CF) — Wesley Black, British Columbia's new highways minister, says he turned the tables Wednesday and stopped a police car.

"I blew my horn until he stopped," said the smiling minister. "The RCMP officer asked me what I wanted, and I told him I wanted to be the first highways minister in B.C. to stop the RCMP, for a change."

His predecessor, F. A. Goggin, was stopped a number of times by police and given tickets for speeding.

Mr. Black, in a tongue-in-cheek interview here, said he plans to stop more RCMP cars on the highways.

The most massive and destructive onslaught of tornadoes this spring left at least 70 persons dead in parts of the United States Thursday.

More than 1,000 persons were injured, three were listed as missing and damage to homes and buildings ran into millions of dollars.

NINE STATES
The winds cut through parts of nine states in the mid-U.S. late Wednesday and early Thursday and literally shredded several communities.

Wapella, a central Illinois community of 500, was 80 per cent damaged. Every building in the community except the high school was destroyed or damaged. Four persons were killed and more than 50 injured in the community.

2,000 HOMES
An estimated 2,000 homes and 15 businesses were destroyed in Charles City, Iowa, a city with a population of more than 10,000. Another 1,000 homes suffered major damage. Twelve Charles City residents were killed and 300 injured.

Oil Trough, Ark., a town of 25, was virtually demolished.

TOKYO (AP) — Japan's third earthquake in 24 hours shuddered through northern Honshu, the country's main island, this morning. It was less strong than the two that wrecked thousands of buildings and killed at least 38 persons Thursday.

The Central Meteorological Agency said the new quake registered only three on the seven-point Japanese scale but could be disastrous to structures weakened by the first two quakes.

No reports of damage were available immediately.

OUT TO SEA

The agency located the latest quake's epicentre about 25 miles under the surface of the north Pacific, about 120 miles out to sea.

Fire and tidal waves added to the destruction caused by the two strong shocks Thursday.

Police listed nine persons as missing and 250 as injured in today's quake.

MORE COMING

The first shock Thursday stopped clocks at 2:49 a.m. and the second came about 10 hours later. The Central Meteorological Agency said after shocks will continue for a month or more.

Radio Moscow reported in a Japanese-language broadcast that the Soviet-held southern Kurile Islands were similarly battered. It said nothing about casualties there.

UTILITIES OUT

Japanese police reported more than 2,000 houses were destroyed or damaged on Honshu, Japan's main island, and hundreds were flooded. Travel and communications were disrupted and many communities were without utilities.

The epicentre of Thursday's quake was pinpointed at 25 miles below the floor of the Pacific 87 miles off Cape Erimo of Hokkaido, the northernmost of Japan's main islands.

BIG ONE

The meteorological agency said the magnitude at the epicentre was 7.3 on a Japanese scale with a normal maximum of 7. The 7.3 reading was the strongest recorded here since Sept. 1, 1923, when Tokyo and Yokohama were laid waste by a quake of 7.9 magnitude. That quake killed 143,000 persons and destroyed 3,000,000 homes.
